Ranger Gets 200 Closeup Moon Shots

Cameras Pick Out Large Crack Across Floor of Alphonsus, Target Crater

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — zeroed in on Alphonsus. Clearly Ranger 9 televised live today a dramatic sequence of more than 200 close-ups of the moon as it dove to its death in a lunar crater.

The beautifully illuminated series began by showing three craters in sharp detail from 1,300 miles up, and finished by displaying tiny pock marks on the floor of the crater Alphonsus from but a few miles away.

The live television was a first for the series, which now has three straight successes in returning close shots of the little known lunar surface.

The pictures were flashed on the screen for five seconds each for more than 15 minutes preceding Ranger's 6:08 a.m. impact, just four miles from its target in the 60-mile-wide Alphonsus.

Other Craters

As Ranger 9 plunged moonward, the two other craters disappeared and the camera

Another Radar Station Hit by Bomber Strikes

Four Communist Ships Sunk by Strafing Planes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Eight South Vietnamese fighter-bombers destroyed a North Vietnamese radar station at Dong Hoi today and sank four Communist ships that fired on them off Quang Khe, a Vietnamese spokesman announced.

U.S. jets — their number unannounced — again flew as escorts. They shot up antiaircraft installations to suppress what was described as heavy hostile fire.

The radar station was the fourth reported knocked out of Hanoi's warning network by aerial raiders this month. The raid was the 11th in the series launched Feb. 7.

Dong Hoi is on the South China Sea about 45 miles north of the border. Quang Khe is 20 miles farther north.

The radar target consisted of many two-story buildings divided into the radar station, the antenna center and the command post, the spokesman said.

Heavy Damage
The Communists defended the installation with 100 antiaircraft cannon and machine guns, "but these were rapidly silenced and heavy damage was done to them," he said. One plane developed engine trouble, but limped back to Da Nang.

The ships were encountered as the Skyraiders flew north from Dong Hoi "in continuance of their reconnaissance mission."

The spokesman said the attack was launched at 4 p.m. and all the aircraft were safely back at their base at 5:15 p.m.

Communist agencies claimed some of the planes were downed. The New China News Agency said antiaircraft fire felled two. The Soviet news agency Tass said three were shot to earth.

Tass reported one of the targets was in the area of Vinh Linh, a town eight miles north of the border.

UW Science Fair To Exhibit Model Of Lunar Vehicle

MADISON (AP) — A feature of the University of Wisconsin Engineering and Science Exposition on the Madison campus April 14 will be the operation of a model lunar vehicle on a simulated moon surface.

The exhibit will provide viewers a look at latest scientific efforts to operate remote controlled vehicles on the moon's surface.

The project is designed to show that the first moon explorers will face an airless, waterless environment where plains of lunar dust contrast with gigantic craters and towering ranges of mountains.

Knowles Asks Higher Education 'Shake-up'

Proposal for 4-Year Schools A 'Concession'

Governor Wants More Instruction In District Centers

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The proposal by Gov. Warren Knowles for additional third and fourth year higher education opportunity in the Fox River Valley and in the Racine-Kenosha district is less than representatives of those areas have asked, but represents a concession by the governor who had been cool to the idea of establishing new four-year university-level institutions there.

Provisions of Health Care Bill Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are major provisions of the health care and Social Security bill approved Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee:

Hospitalization — For all those 65 or older, 60 days per illness with no cost after the first $40; additional nursing home benefits from 20 to 100 days, effective July 1968.

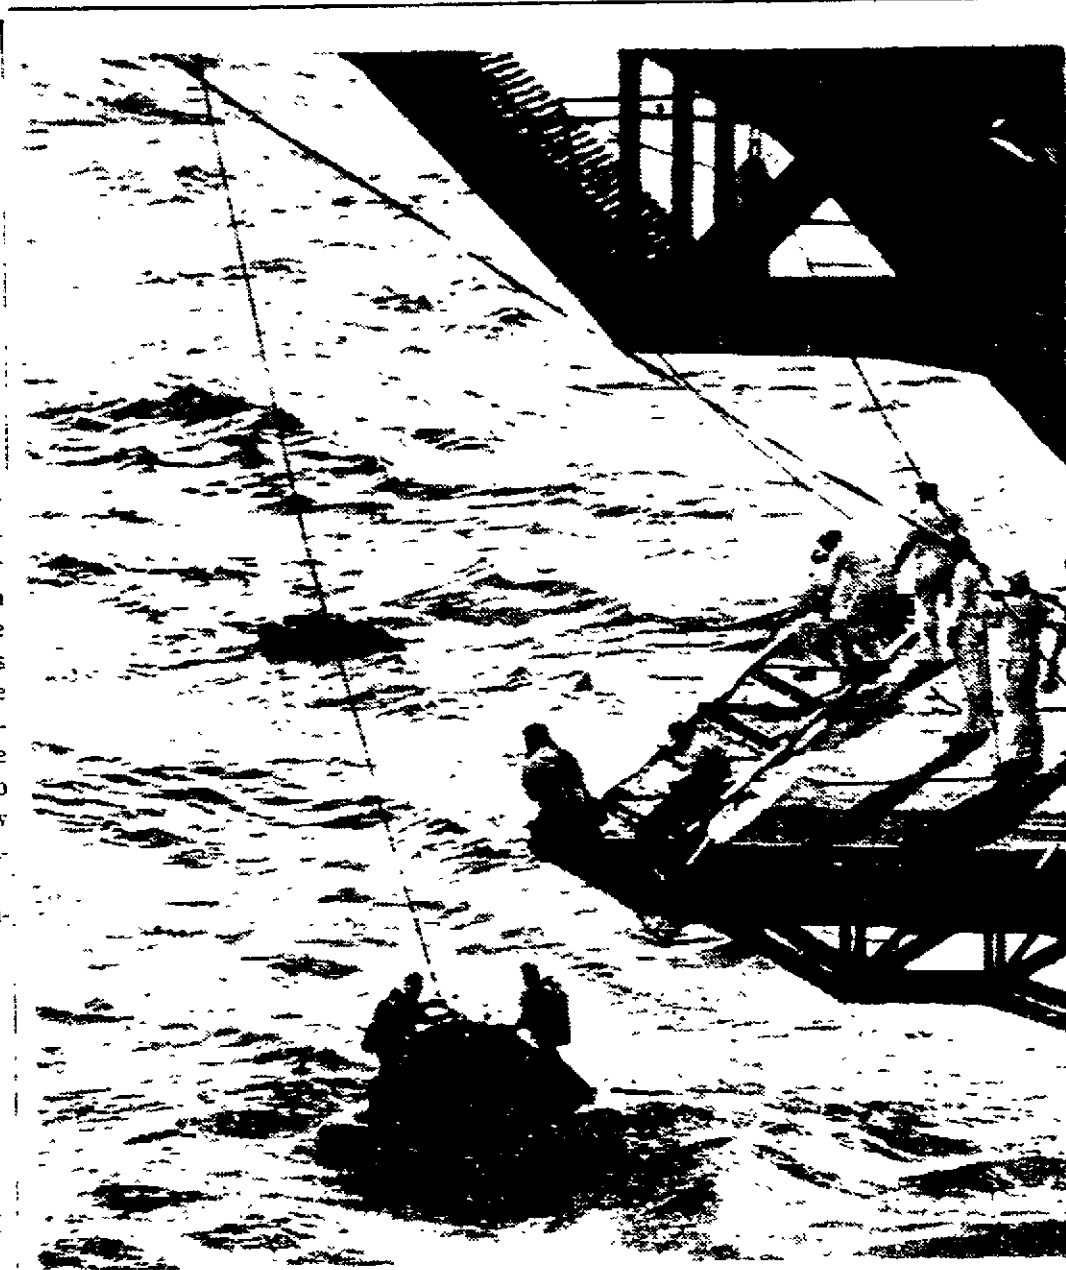

Other medical expenses — A voluntary plan for the elderly, with a $3 a month premium; patient would pay first $50 of expenses, plan would pay 80 per cent of doctors' laboratory, X-ray and other bills, effective July 1968.

Care of indigent and low-income — Increased federal participation, liberalized eligibility rules and broader coverage under the existing state-federal system.

Social Security and old age payments — A 7 per cent across the board increase, with a $4 a month minimum, retroactive to January 1965.

Total federal payments — For the whole package, about $6 billion in the first full year of operation.

Financing — The pay roll tax would be increased and applied to a bigger wage base; next year's maximum would be $69.90 higher than this year's and there would be additional increases in future years.

Puzzle Over Landing Short

Astronauts Telling Experts Their Story of Space Flight

ABOARD THE U.S.S. INTREPID (AP) — Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young settled down today to a prosaic but important business: filling the experts in on what happened during their flight that proved a ship can be maneuvered in space.

Grissom and Young — the first U.S. astronauts to fly as a space team — made three trips around the earth Tuesday.

Each flight provides innumerable valuable clues on how to improve the next performance. Today's medical and space officials pumped the astronauts steadily for reactions that will eventually aid in hitting project Gemini's main target — the landing of a man on the moon.

One big question: Why did the astronauts fall short of the carrier Intrepid by from 50 to 80 nautical miles? Space officials puzzled over this Tuesday, and wound up saying they just didn't know.

Great Success
Everyone, from President Johnson down, seemed to think Tuesday's flight was a powerful success. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and a large contingent of congressmen were at Cape Kennedy to offer congratulations.

Johnson got the astronauts on the telephone shortly after they were picked up and brought to this carrier.

Speaking from the White House, Johnson said he had followed every moment of the flight.

"We're very proud of you,"

the President said, "and very grateful for your safe return."

"It was a thrilling and wonderful flight," Grissom said. "It was a wonderful flight."

Young told the President, "It didn't last long enough."

Grissom told a space official, "I'll be ready to take GT4."

Next Flight
GT4 is the next scheduled flight, a four-day trip this summer with astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White in the capsule. During this flight McDivitt will open the capsule hatch and peer into space.

For the record, Grissom, 38, an Air Force major, and young, 34, Navy lieutenant commander.

Canadian Plane Reported Crashed With 16 Crewmen

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — A four-engine Canadian air force reconnaissance bomber with 16 crewmen aboard crashed Tuesday night about 60 miles north of San Juan, Puerto Rico, the air force announced.

First reports indicated there were no survivors.

The plane, an Argus, was stationed at Greenwood, N.S. It was operating from the U.S. Naval Air Station near San Juan in a U.S.-Canadian antisubmarine warfare exercise called Maple Spring.

The Canadian destroyer escorts Gattineau and Terra Nova were ordered to the crash area.

Noted Physician Is Critically Ill

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Dr. Gordon Seagrave, the famed Burma surgeon, is critically ill in his jungle hospital in the hills of northern Burma.

The U.S. Embassy said the 68-year-old physician is suffering from a number of ailments and his condition is deteriorating because of his age and a weak heart.

Legislature Told of Need For 'Action'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles today called for shake-up of the state's vast higher education system, an expansion of post-high school education for those young people not interested or able to enroll for four years of college, and the creation of third and fourth year state-supported higher education opportunity in the Fox River Valley and in southeastern Wisconsin.

The governor offered his program in a special message to the legislature in which he described a "crisis" in higher education within the state.

declared his disappointment in the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, and offered what he called an essential program of action to anticipate what he said will be a universal demand for education after high school by young people during the next decade.

Knowles' major propositions:

1. The abolition and re-creation of the Coordinating Committee to put it under the control of citizen members, instead of the regents of existing universities and other institutions who now dominate it.

2. A generous enlargement of vocational education schools by putting them on an area taxation and enrollment basis, with expanded technical and job-related instruction, plus two year collegiate transfer courses with instruction provided under contract with state universities, to meet the needs of thousands of students who are not now entering regular colleges.

3. A liberalized program of state assistance to students through loans and scholarships, the details of which he did not declare, but which he said are being worked out by a special advisory committee.

4. Expansion of the University of Wisconsin branch instruction programs in the Fox Valley and

New York's Taxi Drivers Demonstrate

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of taxicab drivers struck today in the nation's largest city. Police reported windshields of dozens of parked cabs broken and several assaults and intimidations against working drivers.

The strike was a massive demonstration for owner recognition of a new union.

The Taxi Drivers Organizing Committee claimed that "95 per cent" of the cabs are in the garages.

Police said there were 1,804 pickets outside 85 parking garages of taxicab fleets.

Headquarters said 12 persons had been arrested in attempts to interfere with drivers who kept working. Among the charges were assault, malicious mischief, disorderly conduct and weapons law violation.

Capital Already Crowded

Many Join March Near Montgomery

LOWNESBORO, Ala. (AP) — The ranks of Alabama's band of civil rights marchers swelled to about 500 today in the final major portion of their 50-mile pilgrimage from Selma to Montgomery.

Three hundred marchers tromped from their muddy campsite at 7 a.m. to get an early start in the fourth day of the right-to-vote march.

They were joined by about 200 marchers waiting at the start of the four-lane stretch of U.S. 89 march which began last Sunday.

At the head of the column were the Rev. Andre Young of Atlanta, executive director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; James Orange of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, Atlanta; and Jim Leather, a one-legged white man from Saginaw, Mich., who says he is going all the way with the group.

Hundreds more streamed into Montgomery by auto, bus, plane and train to take part in the Thursday march to the Capitol itself.

A warm sun filtered through shifting layers of fog as the marchers resumed their trek. Tuesday there was a pouring rain.

Bill Revising Selection Of Supervisors Okayed

MADISON (AP) — Full legislative approval was given today to a bill that would revamp the method picking supervisors in 70 of Wisconsin's 72 counties.

The measure was sent to Gov. Warren P. Knowles after the Senate in a unanimous voice vote endorsed a minor change made by the Assembly.

The Assembly gave a resounding 85-9 approval Tuesday of a bill that would alter county board selection to conform with the "one man, one vote" principle.

Senate Approval
But one amendment was tacked onto the bill, making it necessary to send it back to the Senate for its approval of the change. The Senate has already passed the proposal.

The amendment, the only one of nine offered in the Assembly that was accepted, would allow counties to include areas annexed since the 1960 census in the reapportionment.

Assemblyman Harvey Gee, R-Wisconsin Rapids, sponsored the change, which was passed by a voice vote.

Spurred on by the Supreme Court ruling, which had ordered a revision of county board reapportionment by Nov. 1, the Legislature acted swiftly on the plan offered by Sen. Walter H. Liander, R-Rosendale.

Town Chairman
The bill would place maximums on the number of supervisors a county could have. The most for those with less than 25,000 population would be 21 supervisors; those with 25,000-50,000, 31 supervisors; 50,000-100,000, 36 supervisors; 100,000-250,000, 41 supervisors; 250,000-500,000, 46 supervisors; 'Education Crisis' Message Highlights

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Salient quotations from the speech of Gov. Warren P. Knowles to the legislature today on the 'crisis in higher education in Wisconsin as described by the state executive.

Our problem is to match differences in human aptitude and aspiration with an educational program flexible enough to prepare youth for employability at all levels of the occupational world and compassionate enough to care as much about the transition of youth to jobs as their preparation for and admission to colleges or graduate schools. It is an injustice both to youth and to the educational system to regard a college degree as the only the state of Wisconsin. In analyzing our needs for the future, we must continue to rely upon independent colleges and universities."

"The public universities in many states are turning away young men and women. The University of Illinois refused to admit 5,000 qualified applicants last year. . .

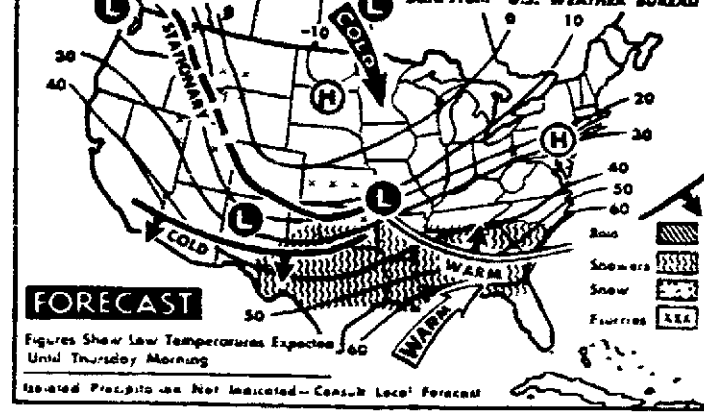

"That is not the Wisconsin way. Last fall the University of Wisconsin and the state universities admitted every qualified Wisconsin resident who applied for admission to their undergraduate programs."

We know that in Wisconsin, as in every other state, the college campus is being challenged by an educational and population explosion. Within the next decade we know that the vast majority of our high school graduates will desire and require some form of higher education. Yet today, less than 40 per cent of these graduates go on to our colleges, and only 25 per cent of our high school graduates complete four years of higher education.

I am extremely concerned about the 75 per cent of our capita than any other state high school graduates who do not receive higher education. Even so we are not fully meeting our responsibilities to the many who must have to the future of Wisconsin training and skills in order to compete in the technological age in which we live.

"Let me state here emphatically, lest someone think otherwise, that I know we have a great University of Wisconsin and a strong system of state universities.

"Let me say further that I am extremely proud of our excellent system of private colleges and universities. They are an extremely valuable resource of higher education in Wisconsin."

Rain Is Expected Wednesday night from the southern Plains through the southern Gulf coast and snow in the Rockies and central Plains. Colder temperatures are likely in the southern Plains and from the Mississippi through the Ohio valley into the mid Atlantic states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Responsibilities

Wisconsin presently has more state-supported institutions of higher learning per capita than any other state. Even so we are not fully meeting our responsibilities to the many who must have to the future of Wisconsin training and skills in order to compete in the technological age in which we live.

"Let me state here emphatically, lest someone think otherwise, that I know we have a great University of Wisconsin and a strong system of state universities.

"Let me say further that I am extremely proud of our excellent system of private colleges and universities. They are an extremely valuable resource of higher education in Wisconsin."

There appears to be a mismatch between current educational arrangements and the educational needs for a large segment of our population. This mismatch, in varying degrees, involves about 75 per cent of our youth."

Bobby Prepares to Climb Mt. Kennedy

WHITEHORSE Yukon Territory (AP) — Clouds, wind and a threat of snow descended on Mt. Kennedy today as Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, guided by expert mountaineers, prepared for his assault on the summit of the 13,900-foot peak.

It was not believed the weather would endanger the success of the climb, but did mean the New York Democratic senator might be pinned down at the base camp for a day or more after the descent.

tute would set up four-year institutions in the Valley to begin operation in 1969, and in southeastern Wisconsin in 1971. Knowles today asked the legislature in his special education message to authorize the addition of third and fourth year university extension instruction at one location in each district, to supplement existing freshman-sophomore centers.

Local Financing

Moreover, the governor said the localities pushing for such institutions should be asked to finance the site acquisition and other planning expenditures preparatory to actual construction of new buildings.

The pending new university bills would appropriate state funds for land purchases and site preparation and planning.

Said the governor:

"The state cannot afford, nor do I think it advisable, to duplicate specialized and graduate programs which are presently being offered and can best be offered at existing institutions," as he referred to the units in the state university system and the University of Wisconsin.

"The state cannot afford, nor do I think it would be wise, to eliminate reliance upon present centers, which have been established in several locations in these two areas of the state. We must be careful that we do not unnecessarily duplicate staff and administrative structures," he said with an obvious reference to existing two-year centers in Menasha, Green Bay, Marinette, Manitowoc and several locations in southeastern Wisconsin.

Need in Both Areas

But he said there is a need for third and fourth year college instruction in both areas, and that "prudence dictates that we should start planning now."

Knowles asked for amendment of the pending university authorization bills to fit his recommendations. The bills were to be reviewed at a joint hearing in the Senate and Assembly later today.

(At a briefing with capitol reporters this morning before his speech to the Legislature, the governor said he has no doubts that there will be a four-year university in Northeastern Wisconsin some day, but he wants to nail down the long-range goals of such an institution and especially its curriculum relationship with existing institutions before the state makes such a commitment.)

"It's going to come," he said, "but we must learn to walk before we can run."

(Pressed by reporters on his precise intentions, he said he does not look for any state financing for a Valley school in this legislative session, but he said the localities in the Valley could prepare while a reorganized Coordinating Committee works out details for the future "Very Good Case.")

"I have never taken the position that these are not necessary facilities. They make out a very good case on the basis of population and other factors," he said of the supporters for the Valley and southeastern Wisconsin schools.)

Knowles also specified that the reconstituted Coordinating Committee should complete academic and administrative planning, before launching upon planning for the construction or location of the new institutions.

The governor's recommendation on the regional institution issue amounted to a repudiation of the Coordinating Committee formula. The committee has asked for new four-year institutions in both districts, but the governor told the Legislature in his general speech that the committee had been "unrealistic" on higher education development in general.

Extremely Concerned

The governor has been extremely concerned about the size of the budget deficit which faces him. The result of his reduced higher education expansion program as it relates to the Valley and southeastern Wisconsin would be to avoid additional expenditure commitments in those districts during his two-year term.

Under his plan the first state appropriations would be required in the 1967 legislature.

Another consequence of the governor's formula, if it is accepted by the Legislature, would be to forecast University of Wisconsin operation of the new third and fourth year institutions.

The University now has control of the existing extension shev's successor as party center system. The board of chief, announced the plenary regents of state colleges, operating the 330-member state University at committee during his speech Oshkosh and nine other locations, has not yet entered the newest Soviet cosmonauts to extension field.

Symbol of '20s Mae Murray, Silent Film Star, Dies at 75

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mae shows as a teen-ager. Florenz Murray, the silent screen's Ziegfeld featured her in his Follies of 1908, 1909 and 1915.

Her marriages were to William Schwenker Jr., a gate-man; Jay O'Brien, a Pasadena broker; film director Robert Z. Leonard, and Prince David Mdivani.

A son by Mdivani, Daniel M. Cunningham, is her only living relative. He operates a shoe store in Troy, N.Y.

She succumbed Tuesday at the motion picture country home to a long illness that followed a stroke and a heart ailment.

"You don't have to keep making movies to remain a star," she said several years ago. "Once you become a star, you are always a star."

Her most famous film was "The Merry Widow," in which she starred with John Gilbert, with Erich von Stroheim as director.

She said she discovered Rudolph Valentino and gave him a role in her 1919 movie, "The Delicious Little Devil." She called him filmland's most fascinating male star.

She once told an interviewer the secret of her success:

"I could dance since I could stand on my feet. Getting in was easy. When you're very young, you have no inhibitions. You go, right up to the stage door and ask what they're doing and if you can be in the show."

"Everyone else in the show would be doing what they were told to do, but I would be doing a little bit extra."

At her peak, she earned $10,000 a week and was one of Hollywood's highest paid stars. She maintained lavish homes and entertained extravagantly.

As her glittering era passed, her income declined. In 1926, she estimated her fortune at $3 million.

Ten years later, she said, she sat penniless for three days on a bench in New York's Central Park.

In the mid 50s she wrote her memoirs, "The Self-Enchanted."

Knowles Gets Revision Bill On Supervisors

100,000 39 supervisors, and more than 10,000, 47 supervisors.

In addition, town chairmen would no longer automatically be members of the board.

Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, said the bill "represents the thinking of the various groups interested in it."

Menominee and Milwaukee counties have separate systems and are excluded.

Public hearings on the proposal were held in Appleton, Eau Claire, Waukesha and Madison.

In the Senate, five days of debate were concluded on a $5,000 appropriation for Wisconsin's 1965 exhibit at the New York World's Fair when the money bill was approved.

Exhibit Appropriation

The Democratic minority had objected to the bill because of the amount which had been spent on the exhibit. Three Democrats joined the Republicans on the final 21-11 vote.

Sen. Richard Zaborski of Milwaukee, the Democratic floor leader, said the new appropriation would raise the amount

Ask Government to Pay Dairymen to Quit Milk Production

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major dairy cooperative proposed today that the nation's costly spent on the exhibit to $106,000.

"We're putting an awful lot of state money—taxpayer's money—into an exhibit the Republicans told us wouldn't cost anything," he said.

Democrats also criticized the commission which operates the exhibit. They tried unsuccessfully to replace former Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, a Wisconsin Dells Republican, with Democratic Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey as head of the group.

Green Bay Firm Files Bankruptcy Petition

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Hugh L. Vadnais of Green Bay, operator of a carbon dioxide and dry ice distributorship since 1953, filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition in U. S. District Court Tuesday listing $44,936 in debts and $5,725 in assets. His firm was called the Red V Carbonic Co.

Under the voluntary plan, dairymen who want to get out of the business would get payment of $1 a hundred pounds on their annual average production of milk the first year and 50 cents the second year. Accept-

They came down in the Atlantic Ocean at 2:18 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, and bobbed in their capsule — nicknamed the Molly Brown — for 45 minutes before helicopters picked them up.

It was a pleasant day, the waves were only two to three feet high, and there was no trouble in spotting the astronauts.

Long Sessions
They were fetched to the carrier — the helicopter stirred up such a breeze it blew the welcome mat away, but it was quickly recovered — to begin the long debriefing sessions.

The astronauts had removed their spacesuits, and wore blue corduroy bathrobes over long underwear. They had been instructed to talk to no one, and it was an eerie sight as they walked silently past silent watchers to sick bay. They paused briefly for a long drink of water. Then the doors clanged shut.

Grissom is the first man to go into outer space twice. On July 21, 1961, he took a 16-minute flight, and in one of the closest calls in U.S. space history, lost by Capt. Wallace W. Love and his space ship and had to swim for his life.

Officially Tuesday's space ship bore the undistinguished title of Gemini 3. But because Grissom's first ship had sunk, the astronauts nicknamed this one "Molly Brown," after the Broadway musical, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Sure enough, Molly didn't sink. She was recovered at 5:01 p.m.

One reason it didn't sink: frogmen put a collar on it that assured it would stay afloat.

Rescue Team
The Air Force said its para-rescue team consisted of M. Sgt. Chances are, Grissom and Young can make it.

They are also scheduled for a ticker tape parade in New York Monday.

Although Tuesday's flight produced nothing so dramatic as the Russian achievement of five days ago, when a cosmonaut stepped from his ship and floated in space on a tether, officials at Cape Kennedy were sure the U.S. flight was a long step forward.

By firing thrust rockets, Grissom and Young dropped their ship down, moved it from side to side, and turned it about.

These movements are necessary if spacecraft are to contact each other while whirling through the skies.

Tuesday's show had one major lack: practically none of the astronautical chitchat that has enlivened other U.S. flights.

Pilot Grissom stuck closely to business, giving technical replies to technical questions.

The wives provided the human touch.

"I think it has been a great day," brown-haired Betty Grissom said in Houston. "There really were no very anxious moments but I hope Gus doesn't make another flight any way soon."

How about Mrs. Young? Does she want her husband to take another space trip.

"Heavens yes," she said. "I know John is ready to start training for another flight right now."

southeastern Wisconsin areas by the provision of third and fourth year instruction to be fed by existing freshman-sophomore centers there. (Details in story on Col 4).

Speaks Solemnly

The governor spoke solemnly as he described the problems of the accommodating existing education demands, and the inevitability of swiftly increasing demands in the years ahead.

"Make no mistake about it. This is a crisis in education," he said.

"The young people are here, now, seeking admission to some form of post-high school education. We must take care of them. We must make it possible for those who are qualified to attend our institutions of higher education."

Knowles said Wisconsin ranks well among the states in higher education, but repeated his earlier assertions that the state has lagged in providing opportunities for youth not available or interested in liberal arts instruction.

Major Share of Cost

He said the state should bear the major part of the cost of instruction in the expanded two-year schools to be built upon the foundations of the local vocational schools established under a program adopted 50 years earlier.

(At a briefing with reporters this morning before delivering his message, Knowles said he hopes the broadened programs of the technical institutes may relieve the pressure of crowding at existing state universities as they attract students who may now be enrolling at liberal arts schools because of the lack of opportunity for suitable technical instruction. He said also that the Coordinating Committee has "neglected" the problem of enlarging job training opportunities while concentrating on the general collegiate educational programs.)

(He said he hasn't thought about labels for his vocational education program, but that he is planning, hoping for "realistic" would not call the new area schools he envisions "community-colleges." He said "technical institutes" would suitably describe them, at least until their college transfer work has begun.)

(Assemblyman David Martin, Neenah, who has worked with Knowles on the expansion of technical education, said there would be 19 or 20 area vocational school districts in the state in the administration bill now before the Legislature.)

Heaviest Ammunition

Knowles spent his heaviest ammunition as he spoke critically of the defaults in the Wisconsin education program, the Coordinating committee which was set up a decade ago when there was pressure for more coordinated planning and administration in tax-supported state colleges and universities.

He repeated the committee has not been "realistic." The reason, he explained to the lawmakers, is that it has been "hampered by an interlocking directorate caused by the preponderance of its membership from the institutions involved."

The professional staff of the committee, he went on, has reflected the interests and the views of the institutions from which they were hired.

Knowles said the state must have a new overall planning agency directed by a majority of citizen members with staggered terms to insure continuity of purpose and outlook, and an independent staff. He suggested the Legislature may also want to assure more direct liaison with the committee's affairs.

No Quarrel

Knowles said the existing institutions are high quality and that he has no quarrel with their programs or their managers. He said he is proud of having been elected president of the University of Wisconsin Alumni Association 11 years ago.

But he said the system as a whole must be improved and its perspective broadened to meet changing needs and circumstances, as he announced also that he will ask for more careful consideration in state policy-making of the role of private colleges, a review of the unsettled issue of maximum campus sizes and enrollment levels of the major institutions at Madison and Milwaukee, the adoption of the trimester plan for more economical instruction of students, the adoption of television and other new instructional methods in the colleges, and a survey of the future usefulness of the county teacher's colleges which are now declining because of the disappearance of a market for teachers with two years of academic preparation.

Better Correlation

He said he will demand a better correlation of vocational school offerings with the manpower demands of the times as shown by the state employment services, and a more effective program of high school student guidance under the direction of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Knowles reminded the lawmakers that he entered office in January asking questions of the Coordinating Committee about education program, but that he is planning, hoping for "realistic" would not call the new area schools he envisions "community-colleges." He said "technical institutes" would suitably describe them, at least until their college transfer work has begun.

Effect of Walk In Space Noted As Negligible

MOSCOW (AP)—The first man to walk in space returned to earth with no noticeable changes in his physical condition, Soviet doctors said today.

They also reported data from the flight showed that cosmonaut Alexei Leonov suffered no muscle strain during his 10-minute tumble in the cosmos.

"The first data on the state of the cosmonaut show, first of all, that there are no noticeable changes in his physiological functions," the three medical specialists reported in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party paper.

"That means that there has been proven the general possibility of developing space suits with a self-contained life-support system, protecting the spaceman from vacuum, visible, ultraviolet and infrared solar radiation."

The doctors also said there was no evidence that Leonov had any physical trouble during his sally into space.

"Muscular constraint was virtually absent and the movements were well enough coordinated," they said.

North Central Asks To End Flights at Outagamie Airport

Petitions CAB Following County Decision to Use Its New Facility

North Central Airlines has made to Outagamie County's requested Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) permission to suspend service for Fox Cities on April 24, or on the date passengers at the Outagamie County Airport. In an application to the CAB, the county receives Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) permission to transfer operations to the new airport in the Town of Greenville.

Air Wisconsin Asks State Okay

Karl Baldwin, president of Air Wisconsin, the new urban airline being formed in Appleton, said today that operations may begin "in 60 to 90 days." Referring to North Central Airlines' request to the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to suspend service to the Fox Cities, Baldwin said the new airline's incorporators will immediately seek registration with the Department of Securities of the State of Wisconsin. Baldwin said "no delay is anticipated in the acceptance of the registration." "Once it is accepted," he said, "we will proceed immediately to purchase suitable aircraft and to provide service at the earliest opportunity. This may take between 60 and 90 days."

AHS Students Quality for Math Tests

Seventeen Appleton High School students have qualified to take the final mathematics tests sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America. I will be given Saturday morning at the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center. These students were selected by the contest committee upon the basis of scores on a preliminary test given in February. Those who will compete include Roger Abel, Walter Brown, David Casselman, Trevi- or Evans, David Feldman, John Forbes, Charles Jacobi, Walter Jaeger and Thomas Jooss. The Ashland are now before the U. qualified person to represent our city in this matter," Mitchell said. In a letter to all mayors, village presidents and clerks in the Valley this week, O. J.

Harried Appleton Woman Starts Drive Against Phone Salesmen

An Appleton woman who is isolated by telephone customers "fed up" with telephone salesmen is taking steps, she said, to see that "something is done" about the growing problem. Mrs. John Shepherd, 1031 E. Grant St., indicated that a "pressure" committee of her neighbors and friends may be formed to bring the problem to the attention of police, telephone company officials and even state legislators. "We've been told nothing can be done," Mrs. Shepherd said, "but I believe that when enough people demand something done, it can be done," she said. Shepherd said her telephone line has been used by as many as five salesmen a day, some calling from Milwaukee, apparently using a long distance line.

Profitable Practice Appleton telephone company officials have stated that telephone sales work is becoming "more and more" of a common practice, because, according to one spokesman, "they have found the practice profitable." The spokesman said the Appleton area is perhaps the third largest potential telephone sales market in the state, with 1,000,000 lines available on a local telephone call line. Sales pitches have been directed into the Fox River Valley, the spokesman confirmed, from Milwaukee, through possible use of a wide area telephone service which makes long distance calls less expensive. The spokesman said, however, that most calls are of local nature and come from rented office space in Appleton. It is illegal and violation of the telephone company license to allow business telephoning from private homes, the spokesman said, and the company is constantly investigating to see that the license is not being

"We believe the committee should meet in the near future and suggest Appleton for the meeting at 1:30 p.m. in the city hall on March 31," Muegge wrote city officials. Muegge indicated the State Board of Health would handle arrangements for the meeting through Appleton officials, and requested communities to appoint official representatives now. Park Board Okays Bellaire Program

Ask Planner To Detail Use Of 25 Acres

Development of the entire 25-acre Bellaire Park area for public purposes was approved Tuesday by the Appleton Park Board.

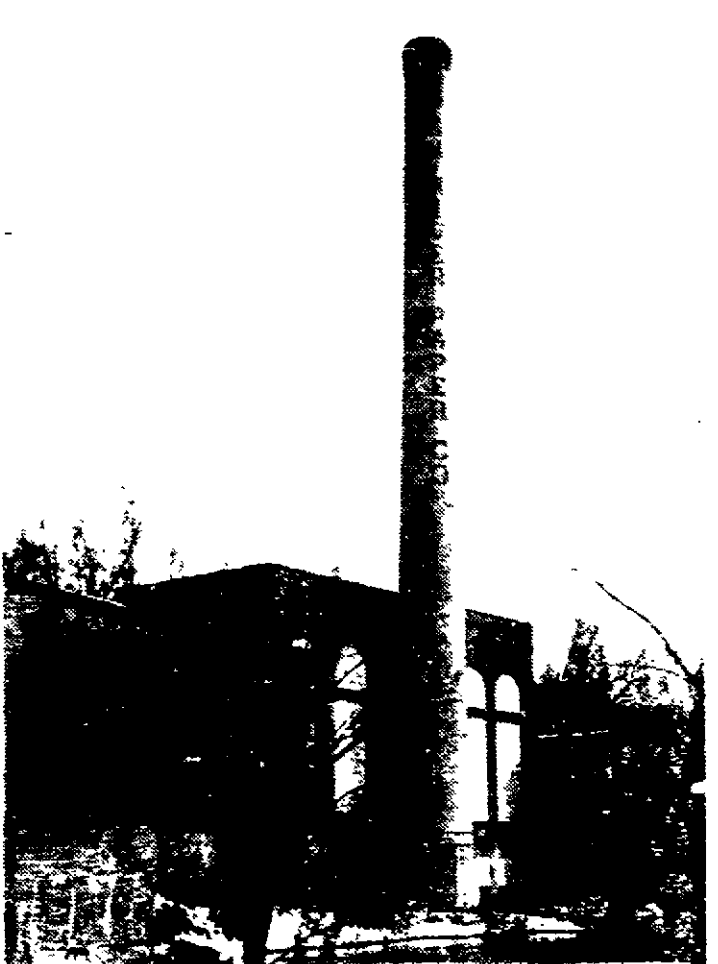

The board recommended hiring a park planner to prepare detailed working plans for the park which has had a minimum public use in the past. Action of the city last year in constructing a new road through the park stirred up a storm of controversy, mostly involving adjacent residents who opposed the project, claiming the road would become "a speedway." William Wachendonk, board president, said there has been a long-range development sketch for the park but felt the services of an expert planner should be obtained now "so we can develop the best kind of a park and recreation area possible."

Seek More Use It is planned to put public cookout facilities and benches along the riverfront, plant trees and shrubs and cut nature trails through the area which extends north of the Pacific Street bridge.

"We should get Bellaire Park squared away this year," Wachendonk commented. Commissioners Erik Madsen and Ray McLone echoed Wachendonk's opinion that development of the city-owned property was overdue.

In other action, the board: —Recommended that a planner survey all city parks and bring in a program of suggested improvements to be considered in 1966. —Agreed to get complete plans for development of a 95-acre area recently purchased by the city.

May Seek Aid —Voted to investigate the city's chances of qualifying for a federal park development grant under the government's "open space" program. —Decided to hold another meeting with the Junior Chamber of Commerce to discuss the organization's tentative plan for turning Pierce Park into a winter sports center. —Indicated renovation of the pavilion in Pierce Park would have to be done soon. —Said it will inspect future park sites that have been offered for sale to the city.

A Boiler House Assessed at $50,000 has been given to Lawrence University by the Fox River Paper Corporation to serve as a new central heating plant for the institution. Lawrence will add $375,000 of equipment and improvements to the facility, which is located in the 200 block of East Water St., about two blocks away from the present Lawrence plant. It is the building with the smokestack, immediately west of the Courtney Wollen Mill.

Truck Firm Cited for Unfair Labor Practices

NLRB Hearing Examiner Decides in Favor of Teamster Local; Decision Can Be Appealed

Fox Valley Truck Services, Inc. of Appleton was cited today by a National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) hearing examiner for engaging in unfair labor practices in 1964. The decision in favor of Teamsters Local 563 found that the firm along with its president, John Toppings, committed unfair labor practices. The examiners decision can be appealed to the ULRB itself. It also holds that the company's legal counsel, Atty. Urban P. Van Susteren, recently appointed a county judge here, engaged in violations of the Federal Labor Law by coercing employees in their right to union representation. Reinstatement Employee Examiner Abraham Maller, who conducted three days of hearings here in August, recommended the company bargain with Local 563 and to reinstate a discharged employee, Lyle Burt, with back pay. "Since I have found that Fox Valley discharged Lyle Burt because of his activity on behalf of the union, I shall recommend that Fox Valley Truck be required to offer him immediate and full reinstatement to his former or substantially equivalent position without prejudice to his seniority or other rights, dismissing if necessary any employee hired after his layoff," the examiner said. He also said Fox Valley Truck be ordered to bargain collectively with the union, upon request. The NLRB examiner recommended that Fox Valley Truck be ordered to bargain collectively with the union, upon request. Turn to Page 4, Col. 3

Favorable Responses AHS Student Body, as Well as State Cage Tourney Team, Draw Praise

Although Appleton High School's state basketball tournament participation may be over, reactions have been steadily coming into the school's administrative offices regarding team and student conduct during the sectional and state contests. Comments, received by letter, telegram, and word-of-mouth have all been highly complimentary. Principal Dr. William Berner stated: "These comments, by outsiders, support our belief that a program calling for daily student participation in citizenship training is well worth the time and effort spent on it. To phrase it in the jargon of the current season, AHS is made up of over 2,000 champions, and to further insure citizenship development, we will continue to promote the school as a laboratory of democracy." From Governor Communications received by AHS include a wire from Gov. Knowles which read: "Congratulations to the students and staff of AHS for fielding such a fine basketball team. I watched the boys play and I am sure the team is a source of pride for all of you. The behavior of the students during the tournament also was a real credit to the school and your community." Also from Madison came a wire of commendation from the Madison Chamber of Commerce which stated in part: "In behalf of the business people of Madison we wish to compliment your students for their exemplary conduct while in Madison." Appreciation and sincere thanks for excellent conduct and sportsmanship during the sectionals held at Green Bay were sent by George Dauplaise, principal at West High School. Comment upon behavior at Green Bay was also made by the Brown County Civil Defense Auxiliary Police through Chief Administrator Joseph Nockerts who wrote: "The parents of children such as you had with you should feel very proud, as this was by far one of the most well-behaved, and well-mannered groups we have ever had." Faculty chaperones who supervised AHS students housed in Madison homes received many appreciative comments. Madison parents rated their guests as the best-behaved students they ever had and reported that curfews were correctly observed throughout the stay.

Three Youths Placed On Probation After Joyride in February

Two Appleton youths and another from Chilton Tuesday were placed on probation for two years for parts they played in a joyride and destruction of an automobile last February. James W. Frase, 414 Brooklyn St., Chilton, and Robert B. Hulke, 1702 S. Madison St., both 18, and Cameron McLeod, 19, 820 E. Alton St., were ordered to make restitution of $485 for vandalism done to the car. The car had been taken Feb. 20 at a beer bar and abandoned on a county road. All three had pleaded guilty to charges of driving without the owner's consent and destruction of property. They appeared Tuesday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 for sentencing.

Businessman Is Critical of Committee

Charges He Became Victim of Politics
When License Denied

An Appleton businessman had harsh words for the council's welfare ordinance committee Tuesday night because it would not issue him a class A beer and liquor license.

Robert L. Vandehey, who said he intended to open a package goods store, inferred he was "a victim of politics" in an outburst before the committee.

Ald. R. P. Groh, 8th, committee chairman, indicated his group would not act on Vandehey's application and would refer it to a council committee of the whole meeting in two weeks.

Reorganized

Last year Vandehey also applied for a license as did a other firm which originally held a class A permit, reorganized the corporation, and asked for it to be assigned to the latter.

Vandehey said he was told by the committee he did not follow the right procedure in applying last year and that he "was not a good enough politician".

Committee members denied ever telling the latter to Vandehey.

Through an oversight, according to Groh, the ordinance relating to issuance of class A licenses was unintentionally omitted when the old ordinances were recodified. As a result, through a technicality, there was no limit on the number that could be issued.

However, the committee stuck to the old ordinance and policy that no more than 14 class A licenses be out at one time. Because the maximum number of licenses have been issued, Vandehey's request failed to get committee approval, Groh explained.

CHILTON — Rep. John Race, D-Fond du Lac, will be at post offices in several eastern Wisconsin communities to discuss issues and personal requests on March 27. At 9 a.m. he will be in Mt. Calvary; 10:30 a.m., in Malone; 1 p.m., in Stockbridge; and 2:30 p.m., in Hilbert.

Appleton Stand 'Ridiculous'

Council Sets Debate on City's Barmaid Policy

Should Appleton drop its iron-clad policy against barmaids? Only the common council has the answer.

And, members of the council will be called upon at their next meeting to debate the pros and cons of issuing bartender's licenses to women.

For years, in keeping with a longstanding council policy overseered by its welfare-ordinance committee, females behind the bar have been taboo.

Contrary to Ordinance

At a committee meeting at the city hall Tuesday night, Ald. Richard Huisman (1st) claimed the policy against female dispensers of "spirits" was contrary to city ordinance.

"Appleton is the only city in the state with such a policy and I think it's ridiculous," Huisman said.

Prompting his taking a stand opposite that of the other committee members were applications of Myrtle A. Wilson, 914 W. Franklin St.; Shirley Fay Goland, 2024 N. Superior St.; and Evelyn P. Lemmers, 1125 W. Brewster St. for licenses.

Huisman made a motion to approve the applications but it died, lacking a second.

He explained the ordinance all.

Kaukauna Hospital School Board Marks 10th Year Top Contest At Kaukauna

Anniversary Open House Tours Scheduled for Sunday Afternoon

(Picture on B-1)

KAUKAUNA — The Kaukauna Community Hospital observed its 10th anniversary Tuesday. Plans are underway for an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

The open house is being planned by the Hospital Auxiliary with Mrs. Malcolm Jacobson as general chairman and Mrs. William Landreman as tour chairman. Mrs. John Zwick will have charge of refreshments. Also playing key roles will be Mrs. Louise McGoe, Auxiliary president, and Mrs. Berenice I. Elliott, hospital administrator.

Much of the tour will be concentrated on the first floor in Mt. Calvary; 10:30 a.m., and nursery departments as an effort will be made not to disturb patients and visitors in the main part of the hospital. Persons who have not viewed the hospital since it opened in 1955 will note many changes.

40-Bed Start

The hospital opened with 40 beds. Two years after the opening an addition was completed which increased capacity to 52 beds. The nursery was adequate for nine bassinets in 1955. The 1961 wing has brought the hospital to 60 adult beds, 10 bassinets.

Other changes to be viewed include a new X-ray unit with an X-O-Mat film processor, an image amplifier, new laboratory, new drug room, new tonsil recovery room, a second delivery room, a 3-bed labor room and an expanded records room.

Future Plans

Items on the agenda for purchase include a pacemaker, defibrillator and monitor, all essential aids in the treatment of heart disease cases. Plans call for the auxiliary to furnish guides for the tours, with about six people to a tour group. The guides will answer questions during the visit.

Following tours coffee, punch, sandwiches and cake will be served in the dining room. Mrs. Zwick will make a large cake in the shape of the hospital to mark the occasion.

Tuesday the Auxiliary presented a dozen roses to Mrs. John Bartels, route 1, Kaukauna, as she became the first mother on the anniversary of the hospital.

Churches Plan Festival of Sacred Hymns

She said an invitation also was extended to Menasha Catholic Churches but that they have not agreed to participate.

"I think this is one way of clearing the air once and for all," Mrs. Stillings commented. Each of the churches has Elmer was going north on Washington Street and apparently fell asleep. Menasha police reported his older model car was a total loss.

Minor damage was caused in a two-car accident at 2:50 p.m. Tuesday at 337 Nassau St. Mrs. Dagobert Jaehning 419 Harrison St., Neenah, was backing out of a driveway when her auto collided with a southbound car driven by Mrs. Arlene Bouck, 205 Elm St., Menasha.

Big Business Getting Bigger, Reports Show

Uneasiness Grows At Government, Public Levels

BY SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Big business is getting bigger fast. The traditional American uneasiness about it is showing both at the government and the public levels.
The rush of annual reports show how successful corporations grew last year — both in sales and profits, and also in plants and other assets.
The number of billion-dollar corporations is swelling. Often the measurements of the largest companies in individual industries are changing as fast as those of a growing boy.
A spate of mergers through many industries is accenting the corporate growth. The increased number of inquiries into mergers by government agencies, and antimerger suits in the courts, is seen by many business executives as evidence that government is still very chary of bigness in business.

Another Reason
Mergers aren't the only reason for the latest growth of the big fellows. But prosperity always swells the number of mergers and they're on the rise now. Stock prices near record highs make it easier for companies to marry through exchange of stocks. If it is outright purchase, the jump in profits last year gives corporate management the needed cash.
The business upswing of the last four years also lured many companies into fields they found too tough — and the way out often is merger with the successful competitor — or with a cash-rich outsider looking for diversification.
Here is the merger trend: In 1958 there were around 900; in 1960 just over 1,000; by 1963 prosperity swelled the figure to around 1,500; and last year to 1,800.

Court Suits
The Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission filed 12 court suits in 1963 to block or undo mergers; in 1964 it filed 21; and in the first two months of 1965 filed 6. Investigations of corporate mergers are under way in such industries as oil, chemicals, iron and steel, foods and in banking.
For the consumer the nervousness about big business getting bigger is traditionally the fear that with fewer choices in the market place he'll have to pay higher prices, or be denied products more to his taste, or miss out on new products held up because the old ones are still profitable.

The arguments of small business against bigness largely boil down to its being unfair. The smaller firm says that it can't withstand price squeezes, or drop in consumer demand however temporary, the way a big firm can. The little fellow sees a recession as a bigger problem for him than for the giant.

Align Suppliers
Small concerns also charge that really big ones can line up suppliers, especially in time of shortages. Some small business executives say it's harder for them to get orders, whether from private customers or the government.

Big business stresses that it is efficient, that it can do jobs small firms can't, take risks they can't, develop new products, new fields that small ones can't. Big business also contends its greater efficiency holds prices down, offsets rising production costs, markets more cheaply and dependably. Big business says that it often is the chief source of orders for small firms making parts or materials, or taking subcontracts as big orders are parceled out.
But with all the increased government activity in the courts, many big companies seem sure to get bigger, and many more big ones may evolve from the merger of smaller ones, before the trend slows.

To Your Good Health General Practitioners Now Study Psychiatry

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER
M.D.
There are at least three main benefits from the increasing tide of physicians who are adding basic psychiatry to their skills.

First, there aren't enough psychiatrists to meet the need. It takes time and money to train a psychiatrist. After a man has finished medical school, has served his internship and has finally become a fully-licensed physician, psychiatry still requires several more years of training.
The U.S. Government provides funds to train more psychiatrists. For instance, a physician with two or more years of practice can apply for as much as $12,000 to finance his study of psychiatry as a resident at a hospital or accredited teaching clinic.
This gives him a living wage, or "residency salary," while he engages in the long study. But despite this financial encouragement, there is still an acute shortage of psychiatrists.
Relieves Shortage
Hence the alternative training of practicing physicians to care for the less severe emotional problems, can relieve the shortage to some further extent.
Second, such training provides enough skill to recognize some cases early enough to prevent them from becoming serious. For years it has been recognized that early diagnosis is the key to averting a great deal of severe mental illness. The question has been how to find these early cases. We now are taking a step forward in that direction.
And third, vast numbers of people have emotional problems which, while they may never reach advanced stage, still cause much misery, physical as well as mental.

The chronic tension headache, thousands of cases of ulcers and probably millions of stomach distress, backache, muscular pains resulting from unrelieved tension — these are some of the commoner types of psychosomatic illnesses. They stem, so very often, from emotional stress, and they are going to be corrected only by relieving that stress. Physical treatment or medicine won't do it because physical factors aren't what caused the trouble.
Severe itching, hives, infertility, colitis, chronic fatigue, flatulence, cramps, palpitation and some kinds of difficulty in breathing are other conditions which while they may stem from physical causes, may also come from purely emotional ones. And we've only scratched the surface of the list.
More Taking Courses
I grant that not all doctors — far from even a majority — have taken these special courses in psychiatric techniques. In some communities it may be only a handful. But more are doing so now.
Dr. William F. Sheeley, chief of the General Practitioner Education Project of the American Psychiatric Association, told me that 25 per cent of the advice he would offer to readers who, more and more often these days, are asking such questions as, "Where can I go in my particular city for psychiatric treatment?"
Dr. Sheeley's answer was, "Without qualification." "They should always go to their own physician first!"
Why? Several reasons. Important as emotional problems are, we shouldn't go overboard. An assessment of possible physical factors should always go hand in hand with a search for emotional ones.
Furthermore, there's a world of difference between the person who merely needs some support, encouragement and perhaps temporary sedation, and the one who is in urgent need of deep psychiatric therapy. The "sorting out" can save time and money for everyone.
Dr. Molner is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses their questions in his column, but because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

Officials Have Personal Interest In Gemini Shot

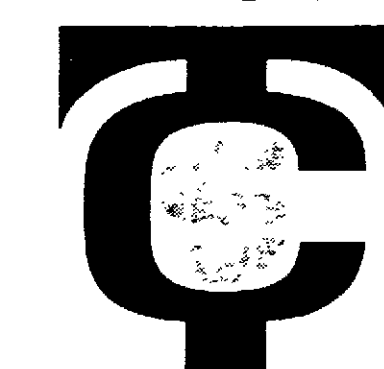

MENASHA — Several Menasha City officials and business- men took a more than cursory interest in American's Gemini space flight Tuesday and in the pickup operation at sea headed by the aircraft carrier, USS Intrepid.

Mayor John Klein, Ald. Jo- seph Omachinski, Wes Saecker and Donald Wirth, the latter two representing the Neenah-Menasha Chamber, were guests aboard the giant ship while they were in Norfolk, Va., for the dedication of the tugboat Mena- sha Feb. 2.

The four were taken on a tour of the aircraft carrier and were guests of the ship's commander, Capt. Smith. Mayor Klein said that nothing was mentioned at that time of the role the Intrepid would play in the space shot.

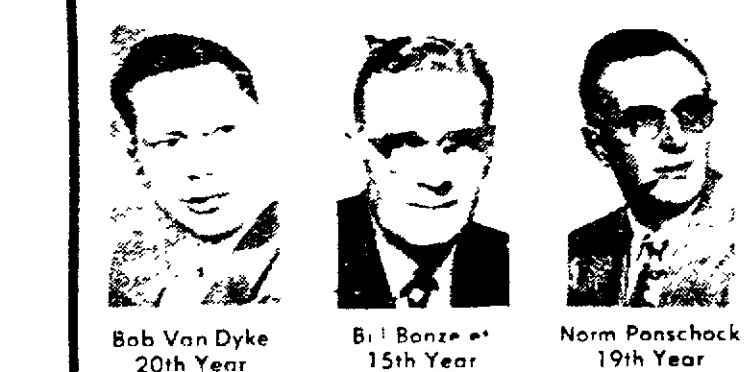

The Intrepid served as the center of operations for the pickup at sea, and the two astronauts and the space capsule were brought aboard the aircraft carrier for the post-flight examination.

Wittenberg Boy Awaits Transplant

Mike Alberg Using Artificial Kidney

An artificial kidney is being used to maintain strength and prepare Mike Alberg, 12, of Wittenberg, for a kidney transplant operation soon, hospital authorities at the University of Minnesota have reported.

The kidney is used for six hours every other day and will be needed until a proper kidney can be found to be used in the transplant operation needed by the youth to save his life.

Mike has been hospitalized since October and has been awaiting the transplant. He has undergone two extensive operations and has only about 10 per cent of his normal kidney function.

Hospital authorities several days ago reported that tests showed a kidney transplant from the boy's mother would not be possible, since then the boy has been placed on a waiting list for a functional kidney.

Meanwhile, the "Michael Alberg Fund Drive," estab- lished to help defray some of the estimated $30,000 for medical bills, has reached $2,700. Contributions have come from all over the northern Wisconsin area, the Fox River Valley, some from Minnesota where Mike is hospitalized, and even from as far away as Florida and Texas.

Knowles' Plan Disappointing To Lawmakers

Lorge and Warren Continue Support For New Schools

MADISON (AP)—Democratic and Republican representatives from the Fox Valley and the Racine-Kenosha area expressed disappointment today that Gov. Warren P. Knowles did not en- dorse the establishment of new four-year schools in the two lo- cations.

Republican Sens. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek and Rob- ert Warren of Green Bay said they would support bills calling for the new schools despite the governor's recommendation.

In a special message to the Legislature, the Republican chief executive said he thought the state could not afford to duplicate the services now of- fered by two-year university centers in the locations. He said he thought the Legislature should approve instead the plan- ning of third and fourth year additions to the present facili- ties.

"Substantiated Need"

"There is a general and well substantiated need for four-year educational institutions in these areas," Warren said, "and it's a question of where you want to spend your educational dollar—I think it should be spent in the Democratic Sen. Taylor Ben- son of Franksville had a consid- erably stronger comment.

"The governor's idea of cre- ating third and fourth year col- leges appears to be more costly and unworkable from the admin- istration standpoint," Benson said. "It strikes me that he has taken order and created chaos."

Assemblyman David Martin, a Neenah Republican who worked with Knowles on the section dealing with area technical schools, said the governor was not clear on how he intends to handle the university center ex- pansions.

"Does he want them equi- distant between existing institu- tions or connected to one of them?" Martin asked. "I'm not clear on that point."

Assemblyman Manny Brown, D-Racine, said he was tired of hearing calls for more educa- tional studies.

"Let's have some action and forget about creating new com- mittees to look at problems that already have been studied a hundred times."

Freedom High Will 'Orient' Pupils' Parents

FREEDOM — Parent-teacher group conferences are scheduled at the high school after report cards are distributed from 7:30 to 8 p.m. today.

Conferences this time will be different from those the school has held in the past. Many parents have shown a curiosity about the school in general. As time for the 1965 Homecoming June 19-20.

Sewer Plans Submitted to Health Board

Hortonville Sets April 15 Opening For Project Bids

HORTONVILLE — The vil- lage board Monday night was told that plans for installation of sanitary sewers in the Black Otter Lake sub-division have been submitted to the State Board of Health for approval.

Iver Oerter, a representative of Glass and Donaldson, an engineering firm, Waupaca, presented two sets of plans to the board for study.

The board set April 15 as the opening day for bids.

The storm sewers will be installed by city crews.

The board instructed the clerk to obtain bids on various sizes of concrete pipe when the street commissioner requests the pipe.

The board stated it did not have sufficient funds to install sanitary sewers in the village park area as requested by the Hortonville Commercial Club. The club made the request so that flush toilets could be installed.

The board granted the club authority to petition the State Board of Health for permission to install a septic tank in the park. The club plans to have work in the park completed in time for the 1965 Homecoming June 19-20.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at an election to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election districts of the State of Wisconsin, on the first Tuesday of April, A. D., 1965, being the Sixth day of said month, the following officers are to be elected:

- A JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT, for the term of ten years, to succeed Nathan S. Heffernan, whose term will expire on the first Monday of January, 1966.

NOTICE IS HEREBY FURTHER GIVEN, that on said Sixth day of April, A. D., 1965, the following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin, having been approved by two successive legislatures, will be submitted to a vote of the people pursuant to law:

Senate Jt. Res. 13 Deposited February 17, 1965

"(Article IV) Section 24. The legislature shall never authorize any lottery, or grant any divorce. Except as the legislature may provide otherwise, to listen to or watch a television or radio program, to fill out a coupon or entry blank, whether or not proof of purchase is required, or to visit a mercantile establishment or other place without being required to make a purchase or pay an admittance fee does not constitute consideration as an element of a lottery." Resolved, That the foregoing amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of April 1965, and if a majority of the voters voting thereon approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of the state; and, be it further

Resolved, That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows:

"Shall section 24 of article IV of the constitution be amended so that Wisconsin citizens can participate, unless the legislature provides otherwise, in any lottery in which the only consideration tendered by the participant consists of listening to or watching a television or radio program, filling out a coupon or entry blank with or without proof of purchase, or visiting a mercantile establishment or other place without being required to make a purchase or pay an admittance fee?"

EXPLANATION

Effect of ratification. The Constitution now provides that the legislature shall never authorize any lottery. If approved by a majority of the votes cast, this amendment will provide that except as the legislature may provide otherwise, the following does not constitute consideration as an element of a lottery: to listen to or watch a television or radio program, to fill out a coupon or entry blank, whether or not proof of purchase is required, or to visit a mercantile establishment or other place without being required to make a purchase or pay an admittance fee.

Senate Jt. Res. 17 Deposited February 26, 1965

No. 5, 1965
A JOINT RESOLUTION

To amend article VI, section 4 of the constitution relating to abolishing the offices of coroner and surveyor in populous counties.

WHEREAS, at the general session of the legislature in the year 1963 an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the 2 houses, which amendment reads as follows:

"(Article VI) Section 4. Sheriffs, coroners, register of deeds, district attorneys, and all other county officers except judicial officers and chief executive officers, shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties once in every two years. The offices of coroner and surveyor in counties having a population of 500,000 or more are abolished at the conclusion of the terms of office during which this amendment is adopted. Sheriffs shall hold no other office, and shall not serve more than two terms or parts thereof in succession: they may be required by law to renew their security from time to time, and in default of giving such new security their office shall be deemed vacant, but the county shall never be made responsible for the acts of the sheriff. The governor may remove any officer in this section mentioned, giving to such a copy of the charges against him and an opportunity of being heard in his defense. All vacancies shall be filled by appointment, and the person appointed to fill a vacancy shall hold only for the unexpired portion of the term to which he shall be appointed and until his successor shall be elected and qualified." Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That the foregoing amendment to the constitution is agreed to by this legislature; and, be it further

Resolved, That the foregoing amendment be submitted to a vote of the people at the election to be held on the first Tuesday of April 1965 and if a majority of the voters voting thereon approve this amendment, it shall become a part of the constitution of the state; and, be it further

Resolved, That the question of the ratification of the foregoing amendment be stated on the ballot as follows:

"Shall section 4 of article VI of the constitution be amended to abolish the offices of county coroner and county surveyor in counties having a population of 500,000 or more?"

EXPLANATION

Effect of ratification. Pursuant to the provision in Section 4 of Article VI of the Wisconsin Constitution, there is a coroner and a surveyor elected in each county every 2 years. If approved by a majority of the votes cast, this amendment will abolish both the offices in Milwaukee County at the end of the terms of those now in those offices and also will abolish such offices in the future in any other county when it has a population of 500,000 or more.

Central Committee Soviet Party Meeting Important to Future Of Russian Communists

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

The meeting today of the Soviet Communist party's ruling body may be a session of utmost importance for an irremediable regime which seems to grope its way cautiously through a labyrinth of tough domestic and foreign problems.

The full meeting of the 330-member Central Committee supposedly is to consider domestic problems. However, it may produce some sort of effort to mollify the increasingly abusive Red Chinese. It may also debate what can be done to rescue Moscow's faltering prestige with many Communists abroad because of indecision about Viet Nam.

Announcement of such a meeting has long been expected, but when it came it was lost amid fanfare over the Soviet Union's new spacemen. First Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev dropped the news in passing in his speech Tuesday extolling the cosmonauts and denouncing U.S. policy.

Always Important

Such meetings — called plenums — are always important. Brezhnev said this one would deal mostly with agriculture, but there is little doubt that it will consider the state of domestic and foreign affairs inherited from Nikita Khrushchev.

Problems of agriculture and the consumer economy, and how to attack them without diluting the centralized authority of the Communist party or deviating even more from the tenets of Marxism-Leninism, probably will occupy much of the committee's time.

Khrushchev had caused alarm among conservative party members and even among high Soviet army officers by implying that centralized authority could be diffused to sweep away some of the bureaucratic roadblocks impeding swifter development of the internal economy.

The party has been experimenting cautiously with such things as encouragement of the private sector in agriculture to step up production, and with use of incentives in consumer industries. These ideas have gained considerable momentum and the regime seems unwilling — or perhaps unable — to brake them.

These problems are all mixed up with Marxist-Leninist ideology.

White House Says Often Saved Lives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration was beset today by demands to call off what critics called "gas warfare" against Communist guerrilla forces in Viet Nam.

High administration officials denied, however, that the United States was in fact engaged in gas warfare, and insisted that the employment of nonlethal, nauseous gases against guerrilla-infested villages in some instances in the past had been done to save civilian lives.

The White House said President Johnson was not consulted before the gas was used.

Indications were that Johnson's response to a group of Republican Congressmen who protested in a letter to him against "gas warfare" would take this line.

The letter was sent to the White House Tuesday as a storm of criticism and denunciation built up around the world against the United States providing the non-killing gas to South Viet Nam for use against Communist guerrillas.

The protests were even reflected in talks held with administration leaders by British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart.

In response to a question following a speech at the National Press Club, Stewart argued that the use of any weapon in Viet Nam should be weighed against its impact on world public opinion, then said:

"I am in fact asking the United States to display what your Declaration of Independence calls a decent respect for the opinions of mankind."

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara later told a news conference the British had used such gases on Cyprus in 1955.

McNamara made the first attempt to state the administration's case for the use of what he called "riot control agents" against the Communist Viet Cong. He said the employment of gases such as those used by city police forces all over the world to control civil disturbances was decided upon to save lives.

At the White House, press secretary George E. Reedy told newsmen that President Johnson had not been consulted before gas was used in Viet Nam because the use of such a weapon was considered normally to be within the discretion of area military commanders.

"For many years," Reedy said, "use of this kind of riot-control weapons has been delegated in area commanders."

When asked specifically whether Johnson had approved of using the gas, he replied: "It is not the sort of thing that came up for that kind of approval."

British Papers Give U. S. Gas Approval

LONDON (AP) — Approval of the American brand of gas warfare in South Viet Nam began to be heard in Britain today. Three newspapers said it was much better than killing.

First comments Tuesday and the immediate reaction of scores of members of Parliament, was almost everywhere hostile.

Counterarguments came today from the pro-Labor Daily Mirror, the conservative Daily Mail and the conservative Daily Telegraph.

Scientist Uses Mice to Study Effect Of Radiation on Ability to Perform

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — A scientist at the laboratory where the atomic bomb was born.

He said the study will be relevant for long space flights in which astronauts will be exposed to solar radiation. The results also will have military, civil defense and medical applications.

Exposes Mice

During the past four months Spalding has exposed more than 200 mice to three times the acute lethal dose of radiation. None of the mice died and there were no great permanent changes in blood count, body weight or voluntary activity.

Encouraged, Spalding will broaden the study at the Atomic Energy Commission laboratory to larger animals such as dogs, which have a slower body repair time than humans, and monkeys, which have a repair time similar to man's. Use of at least 1,000 mice also is planned.

"When we can get into larger animals, I think we will find some very surprising things," Spalding said.

He is seeking a mathematical formula to determine at what radiation level man can be exposed before acute effects become evident.

He said that if a person receives 700 roentgens of radiation he will die, probably within 30 days.

The mice, separated into three groups, were exposed to 100, 200 and 300 roentgens. After their bodies had had time to partially repair themselves, they again were exposed. The process is repeated over and over.

Data is scaled to correspond with estimated effects upon humans. The human body, for example, is believed to repair within 28 days about half of the damage caused by radiation. It takes mice seven days.

Spalding said the tests have shown that the bone marrow has remarkable ability to recover.

Underground Blasts Simulate Tests in Air

WASHINGTON (AP) — Far beneath the Nevada desert, the United States has developed and means of simulating the altitude conditions a nuclear-tipped missile would encounter if detonated at nearly 100 miles above the earth.

This was learned today in an interview with Brig. Gen. Delmar L. Crowson, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Division of Military Application.

All indications are that such a manned creation — deep within the earth — of the vacuum at the fringes of outer space is designed to:

—Help further improve America's defenses against enemy missiles.

—Enhance the power of U.S. missiles to penetrate an enemy's electronic and other defenses.

Crowson said further that deep drilling techniques developed for underground nuclear tests at Nevada and elsewhere have a rich potential pay-off for peacetime industry, especially the oil and construction industries.

Leaders Try To Align Rule In Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) —

Leftist Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike and conservative leader Dudley Senanayake courted minor parties today, each hoping to pick up enough parliamentary support to form a new government.

In final election returns announced Tuesday night, Mrs. Bandaranaike's Freedom party had 41 seats and Senanayake's United Nationalist party had 66. With 151 seats in Parliament, 76 are needed to form a government.

A large crowd collected outside Mrs. Bandaranaike's residence today, hooting, jeering and demanding that she resign immediately.

Prizes Available in Local Contest for Coloring Cone

BY CAPPY DICK

For making the big ice cream cone look good enough to eat and doing it in a way that is outstandingly neat and original, 5 boys and girls will win local preliminary prizes in today's contest and qualify for a chance to win a national grand prize.

The local prize will be a set of two leaping metal frogs. When you place the frogs on the floor entry must prove to be one of the five neatest and most original received from all the cities where this column is published.

Enter the contest by using paints or crayons to color the towering ice cream cone in the picture above, making it look as temptingly appetizing as possible. Clip out the picture, paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card, print your name, age, address and the name of the school beneath it, then decorate your entry in any neat, original way, using coloring materials, cutouts or other methods.

Finally address it to Cappy Dick's Midwest Contest, at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight Friday.

Names and addresses of the prize winners will be published here, along with the names of their schools, and their awards will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Service Stars For AAU Title

College Players Aid In 83-78 Upset of Akron's Defender

DENVER (AP)—Two surprises. Denver's home town entry and the Armed Forces All-Stars, play tonight for the championship of the 58th National AAU Basketball Tournament.

Denver, a weekend fun team that beamed up with some regional college players for the tourney, ousted Akron, Ohio's defending champions 83-78 in Tuesday night's semifinals.

The servicemen edged San Francisco Athletic Club 64-63 to set up the first tourney final since 1957 without one of the big AAU powers like Akron or Bartlesville, Okla., defeated by San Francisco in the quarter-finals 80-67.

Akron and San Francisco play for third place.

Denver's unexpected defensive strength marked the upset of Akron. The home town team pulled away from a 20-20 tie after the first 10 minutes to build a 31-23 lead 3:03 before halftime.

Cecil Tuttle's basket and two free throws featured an Akron comeback that left the 1964 winners trailing 34-29 at intermission.

Two Students

Flynn Robinson and Randy Richardson, two standouts from this year's University of Wyoming team, combined to keep Denver ahead most of the second half. They contributed 18 straight points for Denver and Robinson's two free throws with 1:39 left put Denver ahead to stay at 78-76.

Robinson took game scoring honors with 24. Richardson added 15. Larry Brown and Tuttle each scored 22 for Akron.

The Armed Forces All-Stars never trailed in upsetting San Francisco, but the servicemen's 13-point lead midway of the second half barely lasted against the California team's late comeback.

San Francisco pulled within one point at 60-59 with three minutes left but the All-Stars, getting two free throws on every foul, edged ahead by four points. This lead was enough to withstand a two-hand set shot from midcourt by San Francisco's Lloyd Moffat that banked in at the final horn.

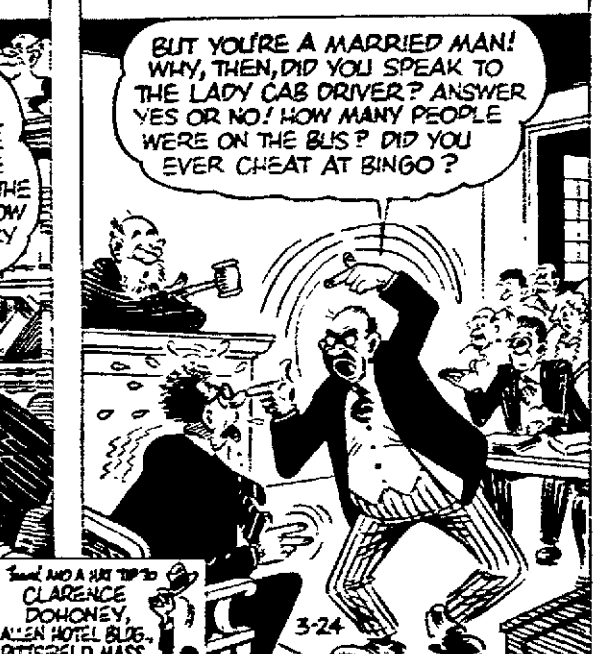

Ollie Johnson of San Francisco was the leading individual performer with 20 points and 21 rebounds. Verne Benson led the Armed Forces with 17.

Tebbetts Has Indians Battling for Positions

BY MIKE RATHET

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cleveland Indians doesn't live in a shoe but he has much the same problem as the old lady who called boot hill home.

Tebbetts apparently has so much talent he doesn't know what to do.

So Birdie's giving them some broth without any bread—and keeping his brood just a little on the hungry side as they battle for positions during spring training.

He constantly juggles his lineup—outfielder—Chuck Hinton, acquired from Washington, has been shuttled around the infield while trying to make the team.

A heavy-hitting cast that includes Rocky Colavito and Leon Wagner.

The off-season trades that between Joe Azcue and Camilo Carreon, acquired from the Chicago White Sox.

The big question mark is the pitching staff.

If you had to tap an ace based on last year's performances it would be Jack Kraich, veteran left-hander with a 12-7 record.

Colavito, who hit .274 with 34 homers and 102 runs batted in at Kansas City last year, figures to get one outfield berth.

Leon Wagner, .253, 31 homers, 100 RBI, is due for the other Hinton.

However, Tebbetts would like to have all four in the line-up at ERA.

The same time and Hinton may wind up in the infield, most likely at second base.

Larry Brown, who finished at 11-6 with a 2.71 ERA, and Sonny Siebert, who finished at 7-9 with a 3.23 ERA, are the Indians' chances to hold the job last season but hit of rising from their sixth-place only .230. Hinton hit .274 and finished last season's sibly eight teams could win

Fitzgerald Leads Xavier Freshman Cagers in Scoring

Pat Fitzgerald led the Xavier freshman basketball team to a 14-1 season mark by scoring 311 points in 1964-5. Fitzgerald averaged 20.7 points per outing.

Jeff Bartosic garnered runner-up honors with 125 markers and an 8.3 average. Dick Gomerling finished third with 83 points, followed by Dwayne Van Handel and Greg Steinhorst with 65 and 63, respectively.

Others who broke into the scoring column included David Vallard, 61; Dan Schweitzer, 35; John Erchul, 25; Jerome Rankin 20; Bob Barlow, 18; Ralph Kamps, 12; Len Gestout, 8; Jim Herres, 6; Dave Brum, 4; Paul Van Handel, 3 and Mark Femal, 2.

The lone loss on the yearling Hawk slate came at the hands of Green Bay Premontré, 44-41.

Eagles Complete Exhibition Card

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles completed their National Football League exhibition game schedule with the announcement Tuesday of a game with the New York Giants at Princeton, N. J., Aug. 28.

The Eagles also play Detroit Aug. 15 at Philadelphia, Minnesota Aug. 20 at Minneapolis, Los Angeles Sept. 4 at Los Angeles, and Baltimore Sept. 11 at Hershey, Pa.

Chamberlains and Celts Win Grade Titles in ARD Play

The Chamberlains squeaked in the Terrors, 23-19, in a double overtime to win the Appleton Recreation Department-sponsored sixth grade city basketball championship.

Joe DeNoble paced the victors with 13 markers. Willis Griffith and Gary Barth rimmed six apiece for the Terrors.

The Celts dumped the Foxes, 24-13, for the fifth grade title. Lee Vandertie tallied 13 points for the Celts. Terry Ulrich hooped eight for Foxes.

Superior Rink Accorded VIP Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world championship curling team from Superior, Wis., visited Tuesday with Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, R-Wis., and hoped to see President Johnson at the White House later in the day.

The four-man team, the youngest to win the title, and the first from the United States, flew into Washington Monday night after a one-hour stop-over in New York.

They won the Scotch Cup world curling championship last Thursday at Perth, Scotland, defeating the Canadian entry 9-6 in the finals.

The team includes Tom Wright, 23; Al Gagne, 23; Bill Strum, 26; and Bud Somerville, 28, for an average team age of 25. They were coached by Elmer Freytag, the U.S. representative on the advisory committee for the Scotch Cup.

After visiting O'Konski's office, in the new Rayburn building, the team went over to the House, as it convened, and sat in the visitors gallery.

O'Konski, in a brief house speech, said many fine people have come to the galleries, but seldom has the House been graced with a visit from world champions.

"I am proud to have the world champions with us," he said.

O'Konski then noted that it was against House rules to call attention to anyone sitting in the galleries, but if anyone wanted to see them, they could look to his right and see the four young men in red jackets. Members applauded and laughed.

U. S. Davis Cup Team Plays First Match June 4

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States will open its Davis Cup tennis campaign against Canada at Bakersfield, Calif., June 4-6.

Dates and site of the match were announced Tuesday by Stephen Hagerman, chairman of the American Zone competition. Bakersfield is the home of Dennis Ralston, the United States' No. 1 player.

The winner of the U.S.-Canada match probably will play Mexico for the zone title. Mexico must take on the winner of the opening round match between the British West Indies and New Zealand.

Sisler Assumes Complete Control Of Pitching-Rich Cincinnati Fortunes

BY JACK HAND

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Dick Sisler is on his own this year. Make no mistake about it. The Cincinnati Reds will bear the imprint of Sisler, who was acting manager last year when Fred Hutchinson, stricken with the cancer that was to claim his life, no longer was able to continue.

Sisler and his coaching staff know it is up to them to carry on. They are in the midst of the tough job of making the decisions that could turn a pennant contender into a championship team.

"I think we have the best pitching staff in the league," and Sisler. "But we have got to try to score some more runs."

Sisler's most important move has been the shift of Deron Johnson to third base and the use of Gordy Coleman at the first base job he surrendered to Johnson last year.

The Reds are fortunate in having a fine crop of young infielders from the San Diego farm club that won the Pacific Coast League pennant. Foremost among them is Tommy Helms, a 309-hitting shortstop, who is giving Leo Cardenas a scramble for his job.

San Diego Grads Gus Gil at second and Tony Perez at first are other San Diego graduates who show great promise for the future. However, Pete Rose appears firmly established at second base, with handy Chico Ruiz to back him up.

"The key to our offense is the hitting of Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson," said Sisler. "Robinson can be a great leader. He is an outstanding ball

Migration of Ducks, Geese Delayed by Cold Weather

SIDNEY, Iowa (AP) — One of nature's mysteries has become a breathtaking spectacle in southwest Iowa and northwest Missouri.

It is the annual migration of geese and ducks to their arctic nesting grounds.

Because of bitter cold weather and deep snow northward along the Missouri River and into the Canadian prairie provinces, much of the Northern Hemisphere's geese and duck population has concentrated in this area.

"It is a sight all should see," said Wesley C. Newcomb of Des Moines, a U.S. game management official.

Field upon field of corn is either white with the blue and white geese or black with ducks. The ground seems to billow and heave as the birds search for grain.

Sen. Jerris Leonard, assistant Republican leader, appeared at a public hearing Tuesday before the Senate Governmental and Veterans' Affairs Committee to support a bill allowing Milwaukee to form a non-profit corporation to own and operate a professional baseball team.

"I do think these people can be a good piece of standby out on us," Leonard said. "These people came in, took our money and ran out on us when the profits were not as good." He said the proposal to permit the corporation would give the county an "extra negotiating tool."

The acquisition of a major league team would provide many financial benefits to the state and help build an "urgent" needed big league state of mind," he said.

Think Summer . . . Now That Spring Has Sprung

Coffee Time Fruit Loaf

By Lillian Mackesy
Post-Crescent Food Editor

Ugh! These March snowfalls are a little hard to take especially when the thermometer also drops to winter levels. The calendar says Spring . . . but how can June do any busting out all over if April showers come down sleet? So it must be time to think Summer in these last days of March . . . maybe that will bring about a change to Wisconsin's usual balmy spring weather.

Any woman knows how to start thinking in terms of a season. She can buy a new hat . . . plant a pot of posies for the window now and the garden later . . . or try a new recipe. The recipes chosen for today can add a bit of instant summer to menus because they're all made with preserves and jellies that come from sun-ripened summer fruits.

There are all sorts of delicious ways to use preserves, but the Jam Cream Torte is one of the finest of recipes. It's destined to become a family favorite simply because it has so many variations. The richness of pound cake . . . either store bought or homemade . . . combines with the flavor of apricot preserves and the cool sweetness of ice cream. However the torte may be made with peach, strawberry, raspberry or any other preserves. Add a chocolate topping and the dessert is a luscious four-layered torte.

For another pleasant variation on a favorite theme, try Baked Chicken Marmalade. It's delicious. Chicken pieces are dipped in a delicate sweet-sour sauce before being baked. The sauce is made from orange marmalade, vinegar or lemon juice and soy sauce. Right now, this chicken is an easy-on-the-budget food . . . it's also easy on the cook.

Next time there's company coming . . . bridge club Sunday drop-in visitors or family . . . bake a coffee cake in a hurry with refrigerated biscuit dough. Then top with

Astronauts' Wives Remain Cool, Calm

BY ROBERT HEARD
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — After a day of news, it was over everything was different. Betty Grissom blushed and smiled triumphantly. Barbara Young's tight infectious grin lighted her pretty face. The day began gloomily, with an iron gray overcast and musty air drifting through the beams of television floodlights in front of their homes. Now the sun shone hotly after Air Force Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Navy Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young were safely recovered from the Atlantic. Spidery white clouds rode a fast breeze across the tops of tall pines in front of the Grissom home. "I think it's been a great day," Mrs. Grissom told a score of newsmen. Several of the wives of her Timber Cove neighborhood stood bunched across the street, dressed mainly in capris and short blouses. Dressed Simply, Mrs. Grissom wore a simple green dress. She said she didn't paste trading stamps as she had planned. "I was too busy watching television," she laughed. She wasn't as anxious at lift-off this time, she said, as on the 1961 sub-orbital flight by her husband. But she held her breath on the return of his Gemini spacecraft Tuesday. "I was waiting for the flotation ring to be placed around the capsule," she said. Sons Scott, 14, and Mark, 11, stood beside her. Scott, revealing the braces on his teeth, put his worry more succinctly. "I was just hoping it was floating." Would Mrs. Grissom like to see her husband participate in another flight? "Not any way soon," she replied. More flights. The same question was put to Mrs. Young at her news conference in neighboring El Lago. It brought this response: "Heavens, yes I'd like to take part again and I know John is ready to start training." With her were daughter Sandra, 7, and son John Jr., 6. John, still bearing telltale dots from a recent bout with chicken pox, had to go back indoors after a brief appearance. Both families watched three television sets, one for each of the networks. For company the Grissoms had Mrs. Jerome Hammack, whose husband is a Project Gemini engineer, and Trudy Cooper, wife of astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr., an Air Force major. Eight astronauts' wives were with Mrs. Young. "I'm a gregarious person," she said. She broke precedent by coming out of seclusion before launch to serve newsmen coffee and sweet rolls. Both families drove to the Manned Spacecraft Center, 28 miles southeast of Houston, to monitor the second orbit. America's first orbiting astronaut, John H. Glenn Jr., was there. He explained some of the mysteries of space flight to the children.

Hairdressers Meet In Milwaukee

The Wisconsin Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, Inc., convened in Milwaukee at the Shroeder Hotel Saturday. Mrs. Berdette Sammons, Mosinee, president of the organization, presided. Bills before the legislators in Madison were discussed. Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Oshkosh, was appointed chairman of legislation for Affiliate K, and Mrs. Dorothy Peterson, Fond du Lac, co-chairman.

Representing this area at the convention were Mrs. Mary Burr, Neenah, a member of the board of directors; Mrs. Peter-son, Fond du Lac; Mrs. John-son, Fond du Lac; Mrs. Theresa Meyer and Mrs. Merle Andersen, Oshkosh.

Miss Lenz, Fiance Plan May Wedding

NEENAH — The betrothal of Miss Christine Lenz to Francis Scovronski, Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., has been revealed by her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lenz, 615 Western Ave. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scovronski Sr., 763 Airport Road, Menasha. The bride-elect is employed part again and I know John is ready to start training. With her were daughter Sandra, 7, and son John Jr., 6. Instant Summer Via Preserve Jar a mixture of preserves and confectioners sugar icing for a smash treat. This is wonderful for Sunday brunch.

Perhaps the most glamorous of the four recipes is Grape Cream Mold. It is delicious served as a fruit salad or as a light dessert. And it's guaranteed to be as refreshing as a summer breeze. This one is made with green grapes, grape jelly, sour cream and lemon-lime carbonated beverage.

Here are the recipes for a summer fling in March.

GRAPE CREAM MOLD
2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
2 7-ounce bottles (1 1/2 cups) lemon-lime carbonated beverage
1 Jar (10 ounces) grape jelly
1/2 pint (1 cup) dairy sour cream
Red food coloring
1 cup seeded green grape halves
1/4 cup finely chopped pecans
Soften gelatin in half-cup carbonated beverage. Melt gelatin over very low heat. Add grape jelly; heat just until jelly is melted. Blend in remaining carbonated beverage and sour cream. Add red food coloring as desired. Chill until mixture begins to set. Stir in grapes and pecans. Pour into one-quart mold. Chill until firm. Serve with mayonnaise or fruit salad dressing. Recipe makes six servings.

BAKED CHICKEN MARMALADE
1 jar (12 ounces) orange marmalade
1/4 cup vinegar or lemon juice
2 teaspoons soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 3-pound frying chicken, cut in pieces

1 cup fine corn flake crumbs
Combine marmalade, vinegar, soy sauce and salt. Dip chicken pieces in marmalade mixture, then roll in crumbs to coat well. Arrange pieces in shallow baking pan, skin side up, with pieces close together. Cover with a foil and bake in 375-degree oven 25 minutes. Remove foil and continue cooking, about 35 minutes. Heat remaining marmalade mixture and serve with chicken. Recipe makes four to six servings.

COFFEE TIME FRUIT LOAF

1/2 cup strawberry, raspberry, apricot, or peach preserves
1/4 cup chopped pecans
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 cans (8 ounces) refrigerated biscuits
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
4 teaspoons milk
Combine preserves, pecans, and butter or margarine; mix well. Dip each biscuit into preserve mixture and fold biscuit in half. Place, folded side down, in rows crosswise in greased loaf pan (9 x 5 x 3 inches). Bake in 350-degree oven until done, about 30 minutes. Let stand in pan five minutes. Turn out on cooling rack.

Combine confectioners' sugar and milk; blend. Drizzle over loaf while warm. Recipe makes one loaf, about 8 to 10 servings.

JAM CREAM TORTE
1 12-ounce pound cake (fresh or frozen)
1/4 cup apricot, peach, raspberry or strawberry preserves
1/2 pint vanilla ice cream, softened slightly
1 envelope (2 ounces) dessert topping mix
3 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup cold milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cut cake lengthwise into four even layers. If cake is frozen, do not thaw. Spread one-half of the preserves over bottom slice of cake. Cover with second cake slice and spread with ice cream. Top with third cake slice and spread with remaining preserves. Cover with fourth cake slice. Place in freezer until ice cream is firm.

Combine topping mix, cocoa, and sugar. Add milk and vanilla. Beat until fluffy and mixture holds soft peaks. Spread over top and sides of torte. Store in freezer until serving time. Recipe makes one torte, eight to 10 servings.

Veterans Dress Up for Annual Uniform Dance

Each year members of the Johnson-Blessman Post 38 of the American Legion take their uniforms out of moth balls for the club's annual uniform dance. Uniforms of every description and fit were in evidence for the event Saturday evening.

Service uniforms are the required dress for the evening, with or without the addition of elastic gussets, safety pins or other alterations.

The committee was composed of Jack Breuer, Gerald Sarens, Richard Bowden, Edward Arndt Jr., Lloyd Berken and Glen Utschig.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

GOOD GROOMING

Dear Louise: After our two children were married, I have been giving full time to my husband's business which is an exclusive gift shop. I think I have had enough experience to take over now that my husband cannot live much longer. I recently hired a very nice young woman who, with a little training, could be excellent at sales. But her appearance is against her. Do you think that I could take her aside and tell her what is wrong? I hate to offend her and am now so confused that I need your help. This employee is sloppy about her dress and hair. She uses no cosmetics and her shoes are run down at the heels. She makes a poor impression on customers.

Louise Davis Answers:
One must face hard, cold facts in business. A well groomed employee who must meet the public is an asset and you have the right to ask that she be more presentable. You would be kind and tactful with your explanation. It is possible that she is in such bad financial condition almost anything except formal that she is unable to purchase attire.

at least new shoes and a basic dress I suggest that you ask her if she could manage the expense without too much sacrifice. If she can't, it would be up to you to decide whether or not to run the risk of advancing her money. I'm sure that you would explain to her that her grooming is as important to the shop as are your window and counter displays.

APPROPRIATENESS OF COAT

Dear Louise: When my husband was in South America, he got for me a beautiful green antelope coat. Is it proper to wear this at other than casual and sports events. Would it be proper for an afternoon party?

Louise Davis Answers:
Only you can tell if your antelope coat has an afternoon and party look. It is my guess that it would be appropriate for in such bad financial condition almost anything except formal that she is unable to purchase attire.

Stuffed Shrimp

Ever stuff shrimp? To do so, clean and devein large shrimp and split, but not all the way through. Fill the shrimp with a savory, buttery bread-crumbs stuffing and pinch together. Dip in melted butter to coat well about 10 minutes or until cooked and bake in a hot oven for about 10 minutes or until cooked through.

Table Setting

When you are setting a table for four, have two sets of salt and pepper shakers on the table to eliminate passing.

The Ailing House

Advantage Of Type of Heat Pipe

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We have an old farmhouse that we've been using summers only. Now we want a heating system installed, for year-round use of the place. What is the advantage, if any, in having a dry return on a one-pipe steam system?

A: In a dry return, water returns to the boiler while still hot, requiring little additional heat to raise it to the boiling point. A dry return pipe being exposed, a leak is immediately visible. A leak in the part of a wet return pipe buried under the floor may not be discovered until all the water in the boiler has been lost through the leak or through the constant dropping of the boiler water level.

I suggest having insulation installed, as well as heating system, to conserve fuel, keep temperature inside more stable, and cut off drafts.

Q: We made some picture frames and covered them with burlap purchased from a fabric shop. We now find this has left oil stains on the walls (painted with rubber base paint). What can we do to remove these stains?

A: A dry stick spot cleaner can be used "as is" to remove grease and oil stains from walls. Available at supermarkets, drug stores, housewares dealers. Or make a thick paste of powdered whitening or chalk and a nonflammable liquid spot remover and cover the stains with a thick layer. Placing a sheet of thin plastic over this will retard evaporation. When paste is dry or discolored, replace with fresh. Several for four. have two sets of salt applications may be necessary. Be sure room is well ventilated while using spot remover.

SEAMS TO ME

By Patricia Scott

Decorate Cashmere

I've written about trimming the sweaters with sequins, with beads and with all sorts of dress-up decorations, but what about thread, back-stitch branch to 'doing something different?' I like the handsome effect of a spray of pine cones and pine needles on a beige sweater or blouse, worn with a matching beige skirt or dress.

You'll Need: One Beige cardigan sweater; 6 yards of brown rickrack; embroidery thread in brown, bright green and dark green.

Pat Scott

rickrack; embroidery thread in brown, bright green and dark green.

To Trim:
1. Lightly mark design as shown, on front of sweater. As backing you can baste beige organdy on the wrong side of right, shoulder, go down the right side, gradually slating to center front just above waistline. Continue branch on the left side to give the effect of one long branch from shoulder to side.

3. Using four strands of thread, back-stitch pine needles growing from the branch, in varying shades of green.

4. At the base of each needle cluster (where needles grow out of the branch), use a satin stitch for 1/4 inch in the dark green thread.

5. To Make Pine Cones:
A. Cut a strip of rickrack about 7 inches or 16 points long. Run gathering stitch through center of piece and pull the thread very tightly. Stitch securely and stitch loose points together at both ends. This will be the cone filler.

B. Cut a strip of rickrack 16 inches long. Pin one end to an ironing board. Twist the rickrack with points facing in one direction only, having all points facing on one side. Press. C. Roll pressed rickrack on itself, keeping the folded edges even until it fits over one end of the filler. Tack to filler with points facing up. Now, continue along row and tacking to the filler as you go along, until the filler is completely covered. Turn under end and tack. D. Tack the cones to the branch at intervals, as shown. You'll need nine cones to get the proper effect.

When you've got a big fat run in your stockings, who notices anything else?

Infuriating, isn't it. If you'd been wearing Cameos, it might not have happened. Because Cameos are the slinky 15-denier sheers that are knit with more stitches to the inch. (The extra stitches give a silky richness, yet help the stockings last at least a third longer.) You'll find Cameos at our Hosiery Department, in fashion's favorite colors. Regular or mesh.

Overlook Mistakes of A Partner

"What should I do about my husband?" asks an irate reader. "He always has an excuse for his mistakes, and I can never get him to admit that he has pulled a boner, pure and simple. Here's a hand we had last night:

"My husband was playing the hand at four spades, and I got up from the table to watch the first two tricks. Then I went into the kitchen and slammed the coffee cups around for a minute or two. Our neighbor opened the singleton heart, and his wife took the ace and returned the jack of hearts. My lord and coffee, my husband was scoring 100 points for the opponents. "I told my husband that he should play a low heart instead of the king at the second trick trick, and our neighbor ruffed. "I didn't watch the rest, because there was no hope. When I came back with the

South dealer Both sides vulnerable NORTH J 10 6 5 A 10 8 5 4 K 7 A 6 3 WEST 9 7 2 2 A Q 19 10 6 4 2 10 8 5 4 J 9 8 4 EAST A K Q 4 3 K 7 6 3 A 3 K 5 SOUTH A K Q 4 3 K 7 6 3 A 3 K 5 WEST Pass 2 North Pass 2 East Pass All Pass Opening lead — ♠ 2

Then he couldn't lose more than three heart tricks. "My husband said he thought the opening lead was from Q-9-2. If so, he would be quite safe in playing his king on the jack. If he failed to take the trick, our neighbor would be able to overtake with the queen and return the suit to let his wife ruff. This would cost him a trick. "Can you point out what is wrong with this excuse? I give up." I wouldn't dream of pointing out that the only correct play at the second trick is a low heart. If the opening lead is a singleton, this saves the contract. Even if the lead is from Q-9-2, South loses only three tricks and then makes the rest. But how can I say such a thing to a fellow husband? A wife who plays well enough to catch these errors instantly should be satisfied to slam the coffee cups around. She should not insist on making her husband admit his mistakes. Daily Question Dealer opens with one spade, and your partner doubles. The next player passes, and you hold: S 8, H A Q J 9, D J 9 8 5, C Q 10 7 2. What do you say? Answer: Bid three hearts. This jump response invites a game but is not forcing. If partner has made a very "light" takeout double you are willing to stop short of game. (If he has doubled one spade without good heart support, you should get yourself another partner.) (Copyright, 1965)

Lawrence Says

Forced Voting
May Apply to
Some Citizens

New Voting Bill
Has Provision for Eliminating Right

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Forced voting may be on its way for the individual citizen in America. Thus far the coercion would apply only to certain persons in particular states. But this is a form of discrimination which has been included in the pending voting-rights measure.

Lawrence

Just why President Johnson has approved of the idea of punishing certain citizens because they do not vote at least once in three years is a mystery. There are lots of persons who become ill or suddenly find they have to be away from home on election day or cannot get an absentee ballot in time. No explanation has been advanced as to just why such individuals are to be penalized if they fail to vote.

The voting-rights bill, which is supposed to be passed by Congress soon, would penalize newly listed voters rather than those already registered, since it would apply only to those voters whose names have been put on the list of eligibles by federal examiners or registrars. The proposed statute actually says that a citizen may lose his right to vote and that his or her name can be removed from the list of eligibles by a federal examiner if the latter determines that the individual has not voted at least once during three consecutive years while listed as eligible.

For Everyone

Compulsory voting is enforced in some countries, but it applies to all citizens. As far as is known, every country with such a system penalizes everyone and not just selected citizens.

Oddly enough, with all the talk about anti-discrimination and giving every citizen an opportunity to vote, nothing has been done by the administration to prevent corruption at the polls, either in the casting or the counting of the ballots in all federal, state and local elections. Yet the federal government now is assuming the right to control the voting process in all elections throughout the country. The only reference in the bill to improper counting pertains to those states which, under the rules to be laid down, will have been adjudged to have discriminated in the past. The law would not apply to dishonesty in other states. The Chicago Tribune, in an editorial, said the other day:

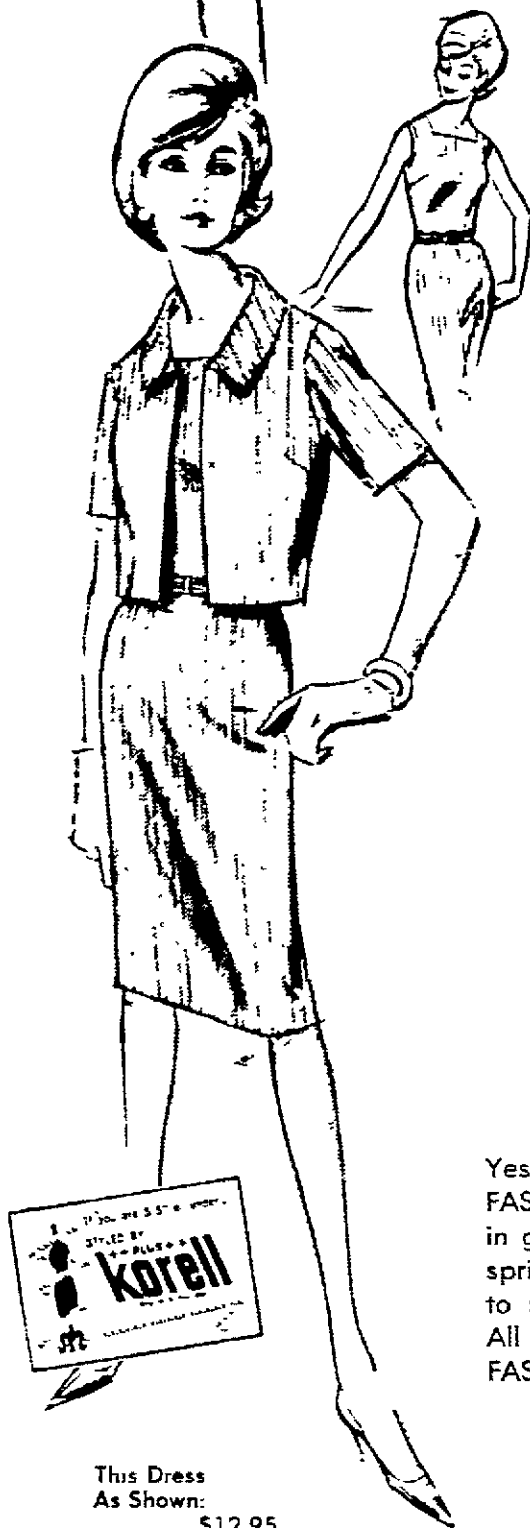

Alabama and the other states of the deep south are not the only places where citizens are deprived of their right to vote and to have their votes counted honestly. At every election in Chicago thousands of Negroes and other citizens are intimidated and bribed by Democratic precinct captains. Illiterate voters and voters who swear they are illiterate are followed into the polling booths and the voting machines are pulled for them.

Another Method

Another method of controlling votes is particularly effective among voters who are receiving public welfare payments or living in public housing. They are visited in their homes, asked to sign ballot applications, and then told they need not appear at the polls. Their votes are cast for them early on the morning of election day.

Undoubtedly there will be amendments proposed to protect the voters, but it is difficult to see how these will apply to all 50 states, since the legislation is particularly framed to deal only with certain states where there has been discrimination in the past by reason of race or color. Timothy P. Sheehan, chairman of the Cook County Republican Central Committee in Chicago, has sent to all Republican members of the Illinois delegation in Congress a telegram which reads in part:

"Stiff penalties should be written into the new law so that the voter can properly exercise his free will and judgment without fear or intimidation, as well as stern penalties for failure of election officials to count and tally the voters properly in order to prevent the many abuses which take place in Chicago and other major cities."

Ashamed Mother Told to Aid Overworked Daughter-in-Law

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am ashamed of my own son. Several months ago he married a very fine girl. She is teaching school to help put her young husband through his last year of college. This girl is trying to keep house and teach, too. It's not easy.

All my son thinks about is his homework. I've seen him sit at his desk and not even move while he struggled to get through the door with a load of laundry. He is too engrossed in his books to help this girl carry the groceries upstairs to their apartment.

If dinner isn't ready on the dot, he is impatient and critical. The minute he is finished eating he goes to his homework and doesn't offer to dry the dishes or carry out the garbage.

I know you are against mother-in-law interference, but I hate to see this girl treated so shabbily. Please tell me if I am justified in speaking out. — Silent but Sad

Ann Landers

Dear Sad: Not only are you justified in speaking out, but you have an obligation to finish the job you apparently bungled when your boy was growing up. Clearly, this can't be described as mother-in-law interference because you aren't dealing with an in-law — but your own son.

Speak to him privately — not in the presence of his wife — or you might create additional problems for her. And it sounds as if she has more than she can handle now.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The children in my husband's family were not born with silver spoons in their mouths, but poker chips.

Every year for the past ten we have all gathered in my in-law's home for the major holidays. It's always the same story. No grace is said before meals, and there is no conversation at the table. It's "Quick, let's eat and get it over with."

This year we gave up beautiful church services and dinner with my folks so we could drag with my folks to look at a deck of cards. I always get a terrific headache from the yelling and the cigar smoke. After an hour of trying to

Moving Day Means Study Of Room Size

More than ever before, families periodically change residences. One family in five moves every two years, according to Marion Longbottom, housing specialist at the University of Wisconsin. Whether moving because of a job change or for other reasons, people like to size up the furnishing potential of a new home before buying or renting.

Room size and shape are basic to any room's possibilities. A living room less than 10 feet wide will look like a corridor if furniture is placed along two opposite walls. Oblong rooms of proportions like 11 by 18 feet or ventuadon, but with furniture 14 by 22 feet are best for easy placed away from drafts.

Be sure furniture arrangement will permit free viewing of Square living rooms present focal points like fireplace, view problems but square bedrooms or television. Check heating permit greater mobility in bed-systems too. Think twice before making and cleaning. An 80 putting floor length draperies or square foot room that is 9½ by 12½ allows several positions for baseboards.

When wall space is to serve for example, can an ironing as a background for furniture, board be set up in the laundry take note of doors that indicate area? traffic lanes through a room. Because rooms seem larger Windows too are important, when they are not furnished. The number and location defi- nately influences placement of scale cutouts of your furniture furniture in the living room. Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND
By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

YOU CAN'T TELL A TEENAGER ANYTHING! RIGHT OR WRONG?

Nonsense. Teen-agers are usually eager to learn and to understand about themselves, their relationships with others, about life itself. The trouble is so many adults are afraid of modern youth. They suspect that teenagers ridicule them of living. When sickness strikes, and that perhaps the kids know more about life than they do help. The war on poverty is not this is nonsense. Youngsters sometimes put on a show of sophistication to baffle adults, but underneath they need as much guidance as ever. One of our greatest needs today is for worthy adults who have enough faith in teenagers to get through to them with real understanding.

Will poetry flourish again among us?
Yes—No—
No, not in the immediate future, according to some of our prophets. They feel that, as our age becomes more and more technical and mechanized, the interest in symbolic forms of expression will steadily decline. If so, it may become, like chess or archaeology, an interest only of a small "professional" group. As it becomes more specialized, it loses its appeal to the masses.

Should the war on poverty emphasize the elderly?
Yes—No—
No, not entirely. Most Americans over 65 years of age do not consider themselves poor. Typically the older married couple has an annual income of about $3,350. One of three elderly couples have more than $5,000 a year to live on. Another one-third of over-65 couples have incomes less than the $2,500 considered minimum needed for modern youth. They suspect that teenagers ridicule them of living. When sickness strikes, and that perhaps the kids know more about life than they do help. The war on poverty is not this is nonsense. Youngsters sometimes put on a show of sophistication to baffle adults, but underneath they need as much guidance as ever. One of our greatest needs today is for worthy adults who have enough faith in teenagers to get through to them with real understanding.

Reds Fighting Harder
Viet Nam War to Return Bigger, Uglier

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Vietnamese war, shoved out of much of the American mind by space shots and civil rights excitement, will be back, uglier and perhaps bigger.

This country intensified the war against the Communists to make them back up and seek a truce. They haven't backed up, they haven't sought a truce, and they're fighting harder.

Six weeks ago, after they attacked an American air base in South Viet Nam, the United States stepped up the conflict with a bombing raid on North Viet Nam.

"We want no wider war," President Johnson said, although the bombing widened it. The bombing raids continued until now they are almost commonplace but the Communists show no signs of yielding. On the contrary.

This week Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, said the Red guerrillas there are beginning an all-out drive for victory. "Now one senses we may be arriving at a decisive point," he said. He said more.

British Ally
He startled and worried this country's British ally, even though it had approved the stepped-up U.S. efforts, when he said there are no limits on how much the war may be intensified.

And then he indicated this country may have changed its mind if it thought bombing raids could make the Communists see the light. Now he says the United States may get into the ground fighting in South Viet Nam.

The irony in the American effort to save the South Vietnamese from being overwhelmed is that they have far more than enough men to do their own fighting, if they had the will and the training. Taylor acknowledged this obliquely.

He said sufficient military, paramilitary and police manpower must be trained to outmaneuver the Red guerrillas. Yet, this war has been going on for years and through the administrations of three presidents.

Thinking of where all this may be leading, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson said Tuesday he wants an explanation of Taylor's statement that there are no limits on how much the war may be stepped up.

Saigon News
This came on top of news from Saigon that the U.S. and South Vietnamese forces are experimenting with nonlethal gas warfare against the Reds.

From Saigon, The Associated Press reported the nature of the gas is classified information but they are believed to be a mixture that includes the universal riot control weapon, tear gas.

But the AP also said one gas reportedly causes nausea and vomiting. The British are skeptical. Wilson said Britain is raising questions about the use of napalm and nonlethal gas.

Lord Kennet said American statements on the gas were contradictory. If it causes nausea, he said, it was "not a type of police gas."

Here Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said such gases were used by the British in Cyprus in 1955, have been used at the Berlin wall, by American police during racial rioting, and by Panama police.

Meanwhile, the White House said Johnson had not been consulted before what was reported as riot control gas had been used in Viet Nam.

Grave Concern
But Michael Stewart, British foreign secretary, said in Washington that he had expressed to Secretary of State Dean Rusk "the very grave concern" felt in Britain and other countries about the use of nauseous gas.

"I am, in fact," he said, "asking the United States to display what your Declaration of Independence calls a decent respect for the opinion of mankind."

In Moscow Soviet leaders hinted at the use of force on the side of North Viet Nam. Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev said Soviet citizens had been volunteering for service there.

After all this there is the troubling question. If the bombing raids have not forced North Viet Nam to back up, then what next and how far?

Beauty, Water Proponents Set Off Battle Over Dams in Southwest U. S.

BY W. JOYNES MACFARLAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The beauty of the Grand Canyon country and the demand for more water in California and Arizona have set off a dams vs. nature dispute.

The federal government, Congress and state officials are involved in the maneuvering — and so is a hard-fighting conservation group named the Sierra Club.

This club, which is based at San Francisco and has chapters from the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic, says two electric power dams that the Interior Department wants to build would stop "the pulsing heart" of the Grand Canyon.

Backs Dams
Not so, retorts Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. A conservationist, Udall is backing the dams as part of an approach to the old controversy between California and Arizona over use of Colorado River waters, which flow through the canyon.

Revenues from the dams would go into a fund to help pay the cost of other water resources projects, including the long-sought central Arizona development.

The dams would be outside the boundaries of Grand Canyon National Park. But, the Bridge has written:

Canyon Dam, downstream, would back water into the park and upstream Marble Canyon Dam could provide additional control of the river flow through the park.

Glen Canyon
Farther upstream is the recently completed federal Glen Canyon Dam, with its now-filling reservoir.

Members of the Senate and House from California and Arizona, which would be most directly affected by the program, generally have come around to the approach advocated by Udall.

But there still are differences as to the exact provisions of legislation, particularly in regard to California's share of the waters.

The Sierra Club has mounted a full-scale attack on construction of the Marble Canyon and Bridge Canyon dams.

The club, founded in 1892 by John Muir, says it has devoted itself to the study and protection of national scenic resources, particularly those of mountain regions.

Referring both to earlier unsuccessful opposition to Glen Canyon Dam and to the plan for dams at Marble Canyon and Bridge Canyon, David Brower, executive director of the club, National Park. But, the Bridge has written:

"Upstream and unmarred was the exquisite beauty of Glen Canyon, the place no one knew."

Most of it was destroyed early in 1933 when the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation closed a dam that was not necessary for this century and perhaps would never have been necessary.

"Now the same bureau has proposed to build dams in Grand Canyon itself as part of its Pacific Southwest water plan — to end the living river's flow for all this civilization's time."

"The dams the bureau plans to build in Marble Gorge and at Bridge Canyon, within the Grand Canyon proper, would destroy not only the living river but also the unique life forms that through the ages have come to depend upon the river's life."

1919 Law
"The major part of the canyon walls would still be there, but the pulsing heart of the place would be stopped. A chain of destructive forces would be begun in what by law was set apart as part of the national park system, to be preserved unimpaired for all America's future."

In rebuttal to such previous claims, Udall and Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., have pointed out that the 1919 law which created Grand Canyon National Park contained this language:

"That whenever consistent with the primary purposes of said park, the secretary of the interior is authorized to permit the utilization of areas therein which may be necessary for the development and maintenance of a government reclamation project."

Udall wrote President Johnson on Feb. 14, 1964, that the positive factors supporting the necessity for the Bridge Canyon Dam and reservoir heavily outweighed the negative factors in impairment of scenic beauty of the park.

The Senate Interior Committee has stated that the secretary's conclusions were well-justified and should be given congressional ratification.

Bridge Canyon
The committee said the Bridge Canyon reservoir's impact would be slight, and that over 98 per cent of the land area in the park would remain in its natural condition.

It further stated that only 1,300 people in nine years, 1955-53, undertook the rigorous boat journey now necessary to visit the remote park areas that would be affected, while an estimated 150,000 people annually would make the boat trips that would be available on the reservoir.

But the Sierra Club is saying a flat no to construction of any dam at Bridge Canyon or Marble Canyon.

Says Brower:

"Unless enough people begin to feel uneasy about the current interpretation of what progress

Aspect of Thesis

Rapport's talk concerns an aspect of his honors thesis, "The Hypothalamic Weight Control Mechanism and Feeding Behaviour in the Albino Rat."

Appear on Speeding Counts

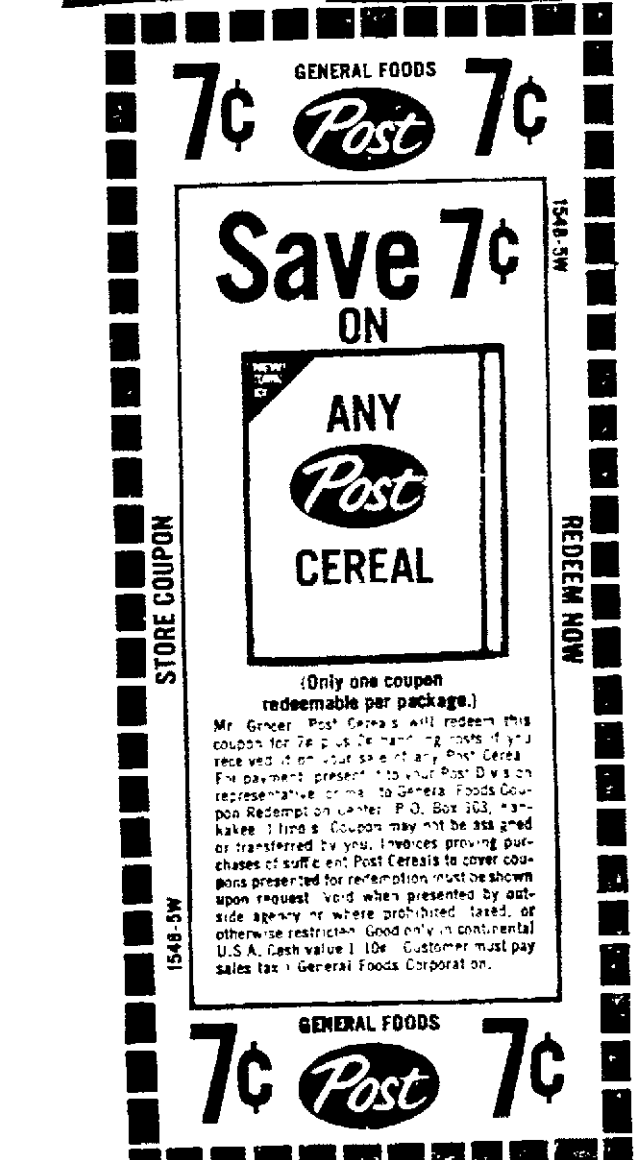

OSHKOSH — Three Fox Cities area drivers arrested by the state patrol for traffic violations on State 47 between Menasha and Appleton appeared in Winnebago County Court Tuesday with disposition on two of the cases settled by Judge James Sitter.

Darrell Egger, 26, 115½ First St., Menasha, paid a fine of $10 and costs after he pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding 62 miles an hour in the 45 zone.

Another charge of speeding 56 miles an hour in the 45 zone against John H. Schmidt, 65, 700 Sixth St., Menasha, was dismissed by Judge Sitter after listening to the circumstances. The March 6 charge was dropped and Judge Sitter cited Schmidt's clear driving record April 6.

All three of the arrests were made near County Trunk AP.

Ranger Gets 200 Closeup Moon Shots

Cameras Pick Out Large Crack Across Floor of Alphonsus, Target Crater

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — zoned in on Alphonsus. Clearly Ranger 9 televised live today a dramatic sequence of more than 200 close-ups of the moon as it dove to its death in a lunar crater.

The beautifully illuminated series began by showing three craters in sharp detail from 1-300 miles up, and finished by displaying tiny pock marks on the floor of the crater Alphonsus from but a few miles away.

The live television was a first for the series, which now has three straight successes in returning close shots of the little known lunar surface.

The pictures were flashed on the screen for five seconds each for more than 15 minutes preceding Ranger's 9:08 a.m. impact, just four miles from its target in the 60-mile-wide Alphonsus.

Other Craters

As Ranger 9 plunged moonward, the two other craters disappeared and the camera

Another Radar Station Hit by Bomber Strikes

Four Communist Ships Sunk by Strafing Planes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Eight South Vietnamese fighter-bombers destroyed a North Vietnamese radar station at Dong Hoi today and sank four Communist ships that fired on them off Quang Khe, a Vietnamese spokesman announced.

U.S. jets — their number unannounced — again flew as escorts. They shot up anti-aircraft installations to suppress what was described as heavy hostile fire.

The radar station was the fourth reported knocked out of Hanoi's warning network by aerial raiders this month. The raid was the 11th in the series launched Feb. 7.

Dong Hoi is on the South China Sea about 45 miles north of the border. Quang Khe is 20 miles farther north.

The radar target consisted of "many two-story buildings divided into the radar station, the antenna center and the command post," the spokesman said.

Heavy Damage
The Communists defended the installation with 100 anti-aircraft cannon and machine guns, "but these were rapidly silenced and heavy damage was done to them," he said. One plane developed engine trouble, but limped back to Da Nang.

The ships were encountered as the Skyriders flew north from Dong Hoi "in continuance of their reconnaissance mission."

The spokesman said the attack was launched at 4 p.m. and all the aircraft were safely back at their base at 5:15 p.m.

Communist agencies claimed some of the planes were downed. The New China News Agency said anti-aircraft fire killed two. The Soviet news agency Tass said three were shot to earth.

Tass reported one of the targets was in the area of Vinh Linh, a town eight miles north of the border.

UW Science Fair To Exhibit Model Of Lunar Vehicle

MADISON (AP) — A feature of the University of Wisconsin Engineering and Science Exposition on the Madison campus April 1-4 will be the operation of a model lunar vehicle on a simulated moon surface.

The exhibit will provide viewers a look at latest scientific efforts to operate remote controlled vehicles on the moon's surface.

The project is designed to show that the first moon explorers will face an airless, waterless environment where plans of lunar dust contrast with gigantic craters and towering ranges of mountains.

Knowles Asks Higher Education 'Shake-up'

Proposal for 4-Year Schools A 'Concession'

Governor Wants More Instruction In District Centers

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The proposal by Gov. Warren Knowles for additional third and fourth year higher education opportunity in the Fox River Valley and in the Racine-Kenosha district is less than representatives of those areas have asked, but represents a concession by the governor who had been cool to the idea of establishing new four-year university-level institutions there.

Provisions of Health Care Bill Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are major provisions of the health care and Social Security bill approved Tuesday by the House Ways and Means Committee:

Hospitalization — For all those 65 or older, 69 days per illness with no cost after the first $40; additional nursing home benefits from 20 to 100 days, effective July 1966.

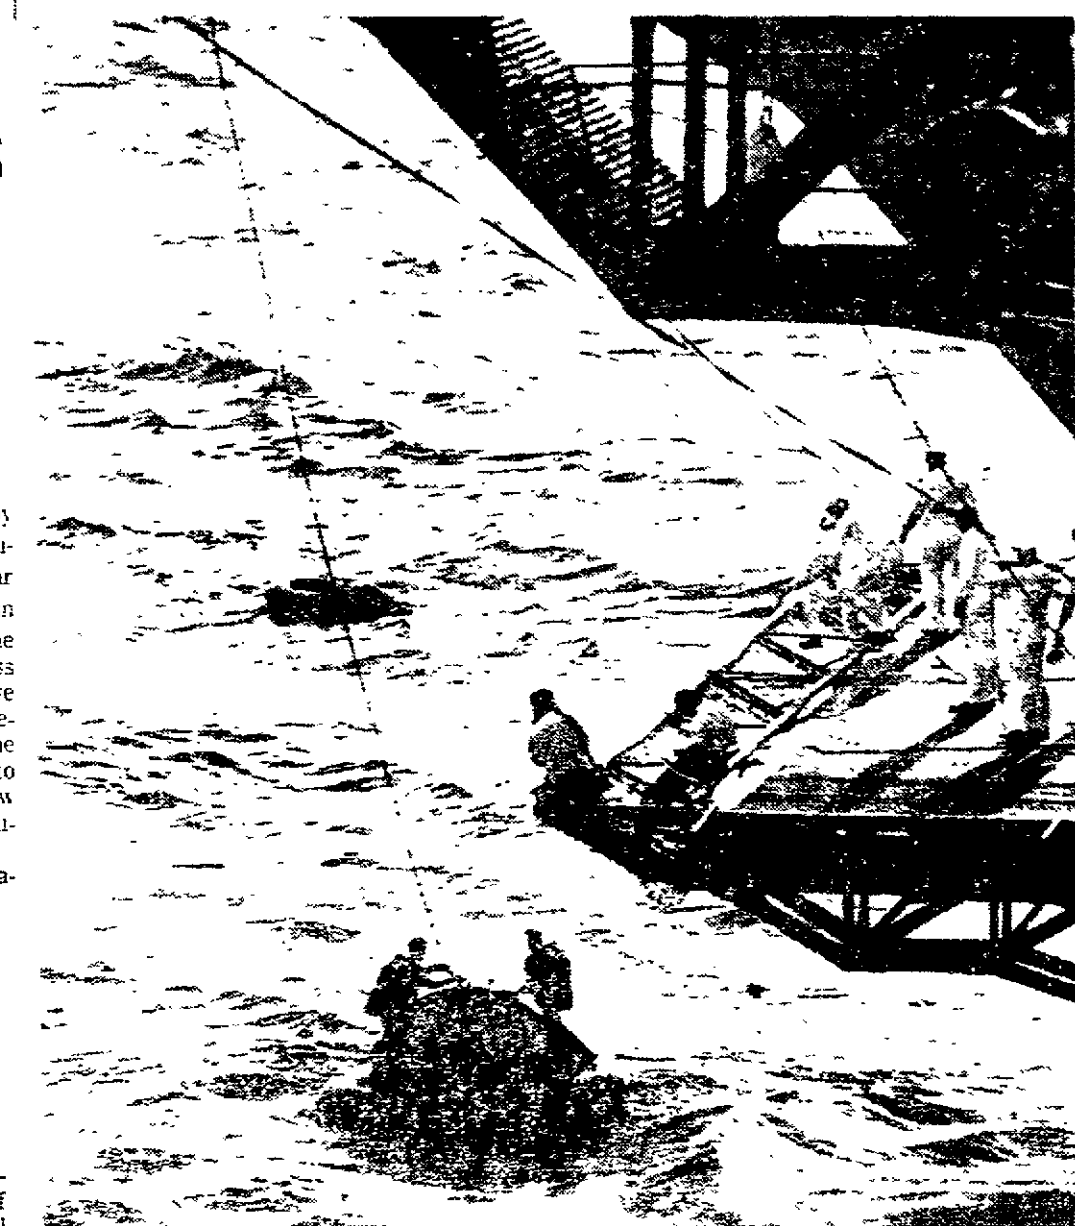

Other medical expenses — A voluntary plan for the elderly, with a $3 a month premium; patient would pay first $50 of expenses, plan would pay 80 per cent of doctors' laboratory, X-ray and other bills, effective July 1966.

Care of indigent and low-income — Increased federal participation, liberalized eligibility rules and broader coverage under the existing state-federal system.

Social Security and old age payments — A 7 per cent across the board increase, with a $1 a month maximum, retroactive to January 1965.

Total federal payments — For the whole package, about $6 billion in the first full year of operation.

Financing — The pay roll tax would be increased and applied to a bigger wage base, next year's maximum would be $69.90 higher than this year's and there would be additional increases in future years.

Puzzle Over Landing Short

Astronauts Telling Experts Their Story of Space Flight

ABOARD THE U.S.S. INTREPID (AP) — Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young settled down today to prosaic but important business: filing the experts in on what happened during their flight that proved a ship can be maneuvered in space.

Grissom and Young — the first U.S. astronauts to fly as a space team — made three trips around the earth Tuesday.

Each flight provides innumerable valuable clues on how to improve the next performance. Today medical and space officials pumped the astronauts steadily for reactions that will eventually aid in hitting project Gemini's main target — the landing of a man on the moon.

One big question, Why did the astronauts fall short of the carrier Intrepid by from 50 to 60 nautical miles? Space officials puzzled over this Tuesday, and wound up saying they just didn't know.

Great Success

Everyone, from President Johnson down, seemed to think Tuesday's flight was a powerful success. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and a large contingent of congressmen were at Cape Kennedy to offer congratulations.

Johnson got the astronauts on the telephone shortly after they were picked up and brought to this carrier.

Speaking from the White House, Johnson said he had looked every moment of the flight.

The President said, "and very grateful for your safe return."

"It was a thrilling and wonderful flight," Grissom said.

"It was a wonderful flight," Young told the President. "It didn't last long enough."

Grissom told a space official, "I'll be ready to take GT4."

Next Flight

GT4 is the next scheduled flight, a four-day trip this summer with astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White in the capsule. During this flight McDivitt will open the capsule hatch and peer into space.

For the record, Grissom, 38, an Air Force major, and Young, 34, Navy lieutenant commander.

Canadian Plane Reported Crashed With 16 Crewmen

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — A four-engine Canadian air force reconnaissance bomber with 16 crewmen aboard crashed Tuesday night about 60 miles north of San Juan, Puerto Rico, the air force announced.

First reports indicated there were no survivors.

The plane, an Argus, was stationed at Greenwood, N.S. It was operating from the U.S. Naval Air Station near San Juan on a U.S.-Canadian antisubmarine warfare exercise called Maple Spring.

The Canadian destroyer escorts Gattineau and Terra Nova were ordered to the crash area.

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Dr. Gordon Seagrave, the famed Burma surgeon, is critically ill in his jungle hospital in the hills of northern Burma.

The U.S. Embassy said the 68-year-old physician is suffering from a number of ailments and his condition is deteriorating because of his age and a weak heart.

Legislature Told of Need For 'Action'

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles today called for shake-up of the state's vast higher education system, an expansion of post-high school education for those young people not interested or able to enroll for four years of college, and the creation of third and fourth year state-supported higher education opportunity in the Fox River Valley and in southeastern Wisconsin.

The governor offered his program in a special message to the legislature in which he described a "crisis" in higher education within the state, declared his disappointment in the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, and offered what he called an essential program of action to anticipate what he said will be a universal demand for education after high school by young people during the next decade.

Knowles' major propositions:

1. The abolition and recreation of the Coordinating Committee to put it under the control of citizen members, instead of the regents of existing universities and other institutions who now dominate it.

2. A generous enlargement of vocational education schools by putting them on an area taxation and enrollment basis, with expanded technical and job-related instruction, plus two year collegiate transfer courses with instruction provided under contract with state universities, to meet the needs of thousands of students who are not now entering regular colleges.

3. A liberalized program of state assistance to students through loans and scholarships, the details of which he did not declare, but which he said are being worked out by a special advisory committee.

4. Expansion of the University of Wisconsin branch instruction programs in the Fox Valley and

New York's Taxi Drivers Demonstrate

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of taxicab drivers struck today in the nation's largest city. Police reported windshields of dozens of parked cabs broken and several assaults and intimidations against working drivers.

The strike was a massive demonstration for owner recognition of a new union.

The Taxi Drivers Organizing Committee claimed that "95 per cent of the cabs are in the garages."

Police said there were 1,604 pickets outside 85 parking garages of taxicab fleets.

Headquarters said 12 persons had been arrested in attempts to interfere with drivers who kept working. Among the charges were assault, malicious mischief, disorderly conduct and weapons law violation.

Capital Already Crowded

Many Join March Near Montgomery

LOWNESBORO, Ala. (AP) — The ranks of Alabama's band of civil rights marchers swelled to about 500 today in the final major portion of their 59-mile pilgrimage from Selma to Montgomery.

Three hundred marchers tramped from their muddy campsite at 7 a.m. to get an early start in the fourth day of the eight-day march.

They were joined by about 200 marchers waiting at the start of the four-day stretch of U.S. 80 leading into the Alabama capital.

Warm Sun
Hundreds more streamed into Montgomery by auto, bus, plane and train to take part in the Tuesday march to the Capitol.

A warm sun filtered through streaming layers of fog as the march resumed their trek. Tuesday there was a pouring rain.

At the head of the column were the Rev. Andre Young of Atlanta, executive director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, James Orange of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, Atlanta, and Jim Leather, a one-legged black man from Saginaw, Mich., who says he is going all the way with the group.

Here's What's Ahead

U. S. Has Big Plans For Manned Flights

BY HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — With the flight of the Molly Brown, the United States gained a little ground on the Russians in the manned-space race and opened the gates to a flood of astronaut launchings in the years ahead.

Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young took the Gemini spacecraft up for a trial run Tuesday. They flew it backward, forward and upside down and executed the first orbital changes ever made by a manned spacecraft.

3-Orbit Spin
There were a few minor difficulties. But project officials pronounced the two-seat craft ready to begin operational missions on the next flight. Nine more Gemini flights are scheduled in the next two years.

Grissom and Young were up for a three-orbit spin lasting less than five hours. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration termed it a "true historic" mission and said it demonstrated the readiness of the craft for future long-duration and rendezvous missions.

In June, astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White are to zoom into space for four days to further evaluate the capsule and to gather medical and scientific data.

McDivitt is to become the first U.S. astronaut to go at least partially out of his orbiting ship. Plans call for him to open his hatch and poke his head into

Australia Suffers First Casualties in Warfare on Borneo

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia has suffered its first casualties in the Borneo war between Indonesia and Malaysia. An army sergeant was killed and two soldiers were injured Tuesday by a mine or booby trap.

Army Minister Alexander J. Forbes said the men were members of a battalion moving into forward positions to relieve a Gurkha battalion. A civilian tracker was also killed.

craft are requirements before either Americans or Russians travel to the moon. The Russians pioneered the out-of-capable operation last week Tuesday as cosmonaut Alexei Leonov did during a spectacular two-man Soviet shot last week.

ture would set up four-year institutions in the Valley to begin operation in 1969, and in southeastern Wisconsin in 1971. Knowles today asked the legislature in his special education message to authorize the addition of third and fourth year university extension instruction at one location in each district, to supplement existing freshman-sophomore centers.

Local Financing

Moreover, the governor said the localities pushing for such institutions should be asked to finance the site acquisition and other planning expenditures preparatory to actual construction of new buildings.

The pending new university bills would appropriate state funds for land purchases and site preparation and planning.

Said the governor:

"The state cannot afford, nor do I think it advisable, to duplicate specialized and graduate programs which are presently being offered and can best be offered at existing institutions," as he referred to the units in the state university system and the University of Wisconsin.

Need in Both Areas

But he said there is a need for third and fourth year college instruction in both areas, and that "prudence dictates that we should start planning now."

Knowles asked for amendment of the pending university authorization bills to fit his recommendations. The bills were to be reviewed at a joint hearing in the Senate and Assembly later today.

At a briefing with capitol reporters this morning before his speech to the Legislature, the governor said he has no doubts that there will be a four-year university in Northeastern Wisconsin some day, but he wants to nail down the long-range goals of such an institution and especially its curriculum relationship with existing institutions before the state makes such a commitment.

"It's going to come," he said, "but we must learn to walk before we can run."

Pressed by reporters on his precise intentions, he said he does not look for any state financing for a Valley school in this legislative session, but he said the localities in the Valley could prepare while a reorganized Coordinating Committee works out details for the future.

"Very Good Case"

"I have never taken the position that these are not necessary facilities. They make out a very good case on the basis of population and other factors," he said of the supporters for the Valley and southeastern Wisconsin schools.

Knowles also specified that the reconstituted Coordinating Committee should complete academic and administrative planning before launching upon planning for the construction or location of the new institutions.

The governor's recommendation on the regional institution issue amounted to a repudiation of the Coordinating Committee formula. The committee has asked for new four-year institutions in both districts, but the governor told the Legislature in his general speech that the committee had been "unrealistic" on higher education development in general.

Extremely Concerned

The governor has been extremely concerned about the size of the budget deficit which faces him. The result of his reduced higher education expansion program as it relates to the Valley and southeastern center system. The board of Wisconsin would be to avoid regents of state colleges, operational expenditure commitment the state University at Oshkosh and nine other locations his two-year term.

Under his plan the first state extension field in the next four to five years, including the first Apollo manned lunar landings.

He said that following the completion of Gemini, manned space flight emphasis will shift to earth orbit flights of the three-man Apollo moonship. He said these will begin in 1967.

"In 1968," he said, "we expect to begin manned flights of the Saturn 5 — and some time in 1969 we expect to be ready for the historic flight that will take the first Americans to the surface of the moon and back."

NASA Administrator James E. Webb said the United States is counting heavily on the Saturn 5 — a 40-story tall rocket with 7.5 million pounds of thrust — to overtake the Soviet lead.

With the same basic rocket, the Russians launched the world's first spaceman, sent the first woman into orbit and last fall sent three cosmonauts aloft in Voskhod 1. The launching last week was their second flight with more than one passenger.

But on none of their flights have the Russians been able to change orbit and shift over the sky as the Molly Brown did.

Narrowed Gap

Dr. Robert Seamans, associate administrator of the space agency, said the Grissom-Young flight narrowed the gap a bit.

"I'll accept the fact that we're behind the Russians," Seamans said. "They have a good program. They're doing some important things before us, and we're doing others before them. We've also got a good program."

After McDivitt and White take their four-day flight, astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr., and Charles Conrad Jr., are to make a seven-day flight which should provide valuable data on how man is affected by prolonged exposure to weightlessness.

After that will come the vital rendezvous shot in which a two-man team will attempt to catch up and join with another orbiting satellite. This space docking maneuver must be developed before man ventures to the moon and planets.

Rendezvous Flights

Six Gemini rendezvous flights are planned.

Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA associate administrator for manned space flight, said Gemini flights will occur at two-to-three month intervals. He predicted a total of 25 manned space shots from Cape Kennedy.

traveled at about 6,000 miles per hour toward the lunar surface. The pictures were dramatically illuminated by bright sunlight, striking the rough surface at an angle, outlining clearly the ridges around the craters.

The craters grew slowly in size in the pictures as Ranger 9 zeroed in.

Third Success

This was the third straight success in the Ranger series, designed to find a landing spot for future moon explorers. Ranger 7 and 8 returned more than 11,000 good pictures. Ranger 9 is expected to return additional thousands.

The first of these are to be released later after being printed. They will be the first to show a crater close up. The two previous Rangers landed on broad dusty plains.

Scientists say they doubt they would want to attempt a landing in a crater but they want to know what one looks like nonetheless.

Space Triumph

Ranger 9 was launched Sunday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., and gave the United States two space triumphs in two days. The first, two-astronaut Gemini space capsule orbital flight was staged Tuesday.

The televised pictures showed the floor of the crater. A prominent, just below the equator and just to the left of the north-south central line of the moon's face, to be flat. It was marked with rifts and small craters, similar to those seen on the broad lunar plains in previous moon pictures.

On the floor of the crater, near its northwestern ramp, was a long, jagged groove.

appropriations would be required in the 1967 legislature. Another consequence of the governor's formula, if it is accepted by the Legislature, would be to forecast University of Wisconsin operation of the new third and fourth year institutions.

Symbol of '20s

Mae Murray, Silent Film Star, Dies at 75

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mae Murray, the silent screen's blonde with the bee-stung lips who made $3 million and spent every penny, is dead at 75.

Miss Murray, who married four times, was a symbol of roaring 20s gaiety who never ceased regarding herself as a celebrity although her career did not extend into the era of talking pictures.

She succumbed Tuesday at the motion picture country home to a long illness that followed a stroke and a heart ailment.

"You don't have to keep making movies to remain a star," she said several years ago.

"Once you become a star, you are always a star."

Her most famous film was "The Merry Widow," in which she starred with John Gilbert, at her peak, she earned $10,000 a week and was one of Holdirector.

She said she discovered Rudolph Valentino and gave him a role in her 1919 movie, "The Delicious Little Devil." She called him filmland's most fascinating male star.

She once told an interviewer the secret of her success:

"I could dance since I could stand on my feet. Getting in was easy. When you're very young, you have no inhibitions. You go right up to the stage door and ask what they're doing and if you can be in the show."

"Everyone else in the show would be doing what they were told to do, but I would be doing a little bit extra."

At her peak, she earned $10,000 a week and was one of Hol-

$200 Million Bridge-Tunnel Unit Appears to be Excellent Fish Factory

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — The 19-mile, $200 million bridge-tunnel complex that spans Chesapeake Bay near here was built as a traffic artery but it may gain even greater fame as a fish factory.

There have been learned papers from scientists at the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory that the building of the bridge-tunnel has provided an immense source of food supply and also created protected places for the fish to lay their eggs.

There also have been trained observations from such as Ray Richardson, charter boat captain, that the "fish seem to be

See Research on Outdoor Recreation

BY OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The time is coming when the government, with the help of outside organizations, will find it necessary to engage in research on outdoor recreation.

Need for such research is becoming apparent to many groups and organizations interested in developing forests, lakes, ponds and even farms for recreational projects.

The Agriculture Department is in the forefront of agencies which is urging new farm business — recreational facilities on farms with adequate natural resources and within easy access to urban dwellers.

The organization Resources for the Future Inc., a nonprofit corporation established in 1952 with the cooperation of the Ford Foundation, is urging broad research on future demand for such facilities before the nation goes far in expanding farm and other rural recreational units on a hit-and-miss basis.

Natural Resources

The declared purpose of the Resources for the Future Inc. is to advance the development, observation and use of natural resources through programs of research and education. It suggests that there is need for research which can measure present and future demand for outdoor vacations much as demand for meat, wheat, fish, fruits, milk and other agricultural commodities are measured now.

Perhaps the foremost promoter of conversion of farms from crops and livestock to recreational uses is Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. In his enthusiasm for such changes, the secretary is motivated by a desire to raise income standards of rural residents, to take unneeded land out of crops and to help provide nearby opportunities for urban folk who like to fish, swim, boat and camp.

Privately Owned The department has just printed for wide distribution a leaflet which says: "Recreation opportunities on the nation's privately owned farm, ranch, and woodland, which comprise nearly three-fourths of our land area, are virtually unlimited." Yet, private organizations such as the Resources for the Future Inc. question whether the Agriculture Department has this is true. They contend that many publications and many problems remain before it can be assumed that demand for outdoor recreation will grow as much as enthusiasts expect. These problems include ways to deal with people who ignorantly or willfully damage recreational areas. Not enough is known yet, these groups say, about how design, maintenance and other aspects affect the mental and emotional attitude of users.

They also say there is danger of overcrowding that could react unfavorably on such projects as well as on the future demand for facilities.

In its promotional work, the Agriculture Department has cited many examples of farmers who are making a success of recreational projects.

Golf Course

"An Alabama dairy farmer converted his 250-acre farm to recreation. Facilities on his farm include a golf course, fishing ponds, playgrounds, picnic tables, a concession stand, a meeting place for groups, badminton and shuffleboards, swings, rides and games. The admission charge is 10 cents per person for the recreation area and 50 cents for golf or fishing. The farmer figures his income has doubled since he converted from dairying."

"An Iowa father-son team converted 8 acres of their 240-acre dairy and hog farm into a 9-hole golf course, and are planning to expand to 18 holes. Much of their farm equipment has been used in seedbed preparation, grass planting and maintenance. Their farm pond is a source of water for operating a sprinkling system on the fairways and greens. The course attracts as many as 500 golfers on a good weekend."

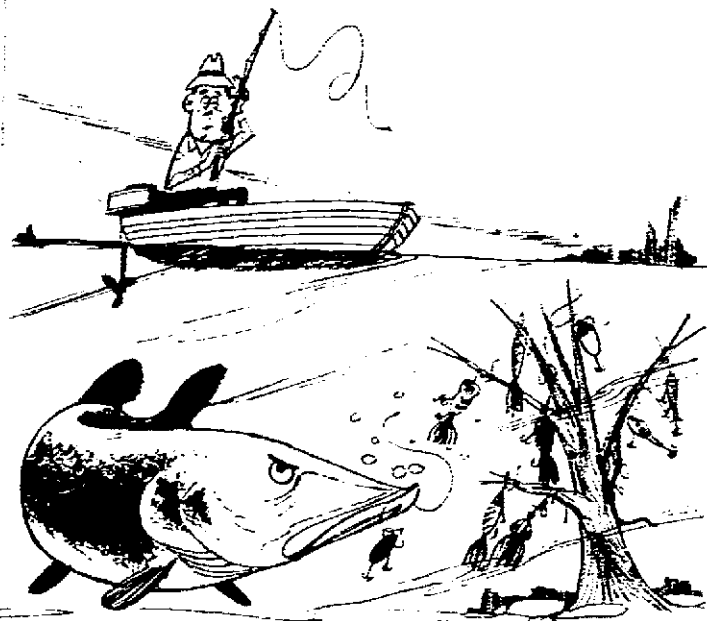

"The owner of a 400-acre woodland in Maine operates his land as an income-producing tree farm and offers skiing, tobogganing, ice skating, snowshoeing, sleigh riding, swimming, fishing, horseback riding, hiking, hunting, exploring, picnicking, bird watching and nature study. He boards about 30 horses at $33 a month. Use of the facilities is by a membership."

New Lands Under County Forest Law Program

MADISON — County lands entered under the County Forest Law now total 2,215,368 acres. The figure includes 2,581 acres authorized by the Conservation Commission this year.

The county forest law guarantees perpetual public ownership of these lands. Good forest management under conservation commission guidance is also assured.

County forests have become a local money-maker. Communities receive payments in lieu of taxes of 25 cents per acre from the state. Whenever timber is harvested, the conservation fund share in receipts at the rate of 20 per cent of the value of the stumpage. The remaining income goes to counties, towns and school districts. The share allotted to the conservation fund helps finance a part of the forest management program on county forests.

Greshma Horse Training Center Built to Operate Year Around

Art, Gary Day Feel Endeavor Will be Successful

BY DAVE DUFFEY

Post-Crescent News Service

GRESHAM — When providing a service, success is predicated on a public interest and a demand for that service

Two still youthful horsemen-entrepreneurs have built a large indoor riding area just north of Gresham so that horses and riders can be trained and schooled the year around. They are betting that the increased interest in riding horses evidenced throughout the nation in the past decade will make their venture a success.

The two young men are brothers, Art Day, 25, and Gary Day, 24. Their establishment, which went into operation last year, is the Doubleday Training Center. It consists of a 200 by 60 foot pole building with metal siding which houses a 140 x 60 foot indoor riding arena, the control with no danger to the stable area with box stalls for 10 horses, tack room, feed room etc.

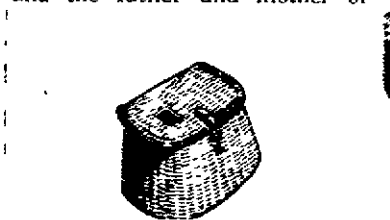

Many Advantages Although operations such as these are usually located close to metropolitan areas, the indoor area the owner can be, brothers Day see many advantages in the relative remoteness of their location.

"This is a good area for raising horses," Art Day asserted. "The overhead isn't as great and hay is readily available at reasonable prices. There's a lot of interest being shown in horse shows and in registered stock."

A major drawback to horse popularity in northern Wisconsin, with its summer-time riding academies, has been the snow and ice of winter which provide poor footing and make it dangerous to work a horse. The indoor riding arena solves this problem.

The riding area at Doubleday has a sand and clay base covered with sawdust. In contrast to the cost and difficulty in obtaining tanbark which is used in many indoor arenas, the sawdust is readily available, inexpensive, provides good footing and is clean.

Training School The Days have found the Gresham area a good place to do business. An older brother operates the Red Barn, a dining place on the Gresham millpond and the father and mother of the Day brothers own and operate the Silver Spur Resort Ranch which is adjacent to the training school

Art got interested in horses through teaching riding in connection with the riding stable at the Silver Spur, took a horse-shoeing course at trade school at Michigan State and instructed horsemanship in a boys camp in Michigan for five years. Gary spent a year in Colorado learning horse training from the horse is trained. Gary said: "You might sum it up in one word — correctness. Good posture is good posture whether you're walking, standing or sitting a horse and we want to make sure both the rider and the horse show good form. The parents ran a dude ranch before taking over Silver Spur in 1957. Gary is married to the former LaVonne Besaw of Gresham and has a son and daughter. What does a month's training with board included, which costs $100 consist of and accomplish?"

Fit Pocket Book; The Day brothers also show their animals entered in shows and contests and have plans to different stabling and boarding arrangements with "fees to fit everyone's pocket book." The also plan a heated observation room where owners can observe their horses being worked. Most of the registered horse Days have worked with have been quarter horse "which is understandable." A Day pointed out. "Wisconsin has a very active quarter horse association and it puts on about 15 shows a year."

For the most part the horse in training have been owned in metropolitan area people are attracted horses and owners

"Distance is no problem if the trainer has a good name," Gary observed. "That's why owner-rider at the same time we're sure trying to establish the rather remote country is a good and trustworthy horse."

'Silence Is Golden,' Especially in Fishing

Sneak Up, Then Use All Stealth You Can Muster

"Silence is golden" — particularly when fishing.

These words to the wise, often administered to small fry at the dinner table, also apply to certain fishing practices — namely the approach.

Sneak up on fish, urge authorities. Invoke all the rules of stealth you can, and follow them carefully when maneuvering into casting position in shallow and medium depth waters.

Game fish possess keen senses of hearing that serve them well for food detection and as warning mechanisms. And their nervous system is quite adept at distinguishing between water-transmitted sound; that spell either a tasty meal or danger.

To slip into a still cove where bass are worrying minnows and occasionally breaking the surface.

face for a juicy morsel requires considerable tact.

Since it's common to shut off the outboard and drift in, noises made by anchoring or rowing are the most crucial. To minimize the former, slide the anchor over the side in advance. Let it dangle until reaching a favorable casting spot and then ease it down.

Handling oars quietly is an art difficult to master. A sculling paddle accomplishes the same thing, but with much less disturbance.

The electrifying screech or bang of a metal tackle box can be muffled by a rubber car mat placed under it. Cork pads in the lure compartments reduce the sound problem when plugs are changed and hastily dropped into the box.

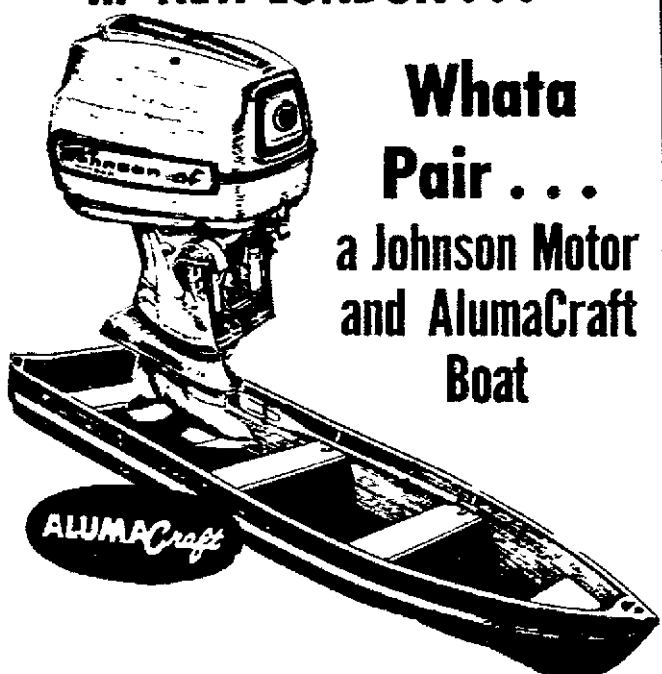

Generally, hold conversation pitched low. Avoid scuffling feet or knocking objects off seats.

Keep it quiet, and you'll catch the sur-fish.

In 'Boating Language,' A Rope Isn't a Rope

English is a wonderful, but well-versed boater says he sometimes baffling language! "pays it out". When he releases it from a deck cleat or other rope is made fast to another. line about a flock of geese, a part of the boat he "casts off". The familiar sheet bend and covey of quail, a herd of cows, Ropes used to control and fisherman's bend are typical a pride of lions, a pod of whales manipulate the sails of a sailboat examples and so on!

It's that way with rope, too. Aboard a boat, rope isn't just rope. Depending upon how it's being used, it's called by a variety of well-established terms.

In good nautical parlance, the word rope applies to cordage generally, of all sizes and types. You go to a store to buy a supply of rope.

Rope is a "Line" But aboard your boat, each piece of rope is correctly referred to as a line; there is an anchor line, a mooring line and so on. You pull a water skier with a tow line.

But there's an exception! A piece of rope affixed to the bow of a boat for the purpose of making it fast to a dock or another boat is called a painter.

Rope of substantial size used on large vessels for towing and mooring is called a hawser. When he lets out a line, the form a new language: to belay a line means to make it fast by turns around a pin, without hitching or seizing it. Fake as a noun refers to a turn of rope in a coil. When used as a verb (fake down) it means to coil a line down with ends overlapping so it will run freely without fouling.

A bend is a knot by which one line is made fast to another. The familiar sheet bend and fisherman's bend are typical examples.

For the boater who is in earnest about learning true seamanship, the study of knots and their terminology promises a rope and its varied uses almost some fascinating hours.

Most Wisconsin Sportsmen Obey Hunting Rules

MADISON — Arrest records on hunting violations in 1964 once again confirm that most Wisconsin sportsmen obey the rules.

A total of only 2,521 violations was reported — a small fraction of the estimated 400,000 hunters afield each season. The figure compares with 2,288 arrests in 1963.

Leading infractions involve the neglect of safety rules with some 725 arrests for loaded or uncased guns in cars and hunting without red clothing. There were 274 deer shining cases, 167 for hunting too early or late, 144 for possessing an untaged animal, and 184 for hunting during a closed season.

Other cases of interest showed 335 arrests for violation of the antilitter law, 29 for water pollution, nine for failure to purchase a park sticker, four for failure to retrieve game, and one for illegal use of a salt lick.

Skinning and Filleting Make Fish Palatable

Spring is the time when some big brown trout are caught in Wisconsin streams. Favorite lure of trout fishermen is a gob of nightcrawlers or a small minnow fished after a warm rain. The angler above is displaying three hefty browns taken from a northern stream.

Plan Would Hike Fee for Non-Resident

Proposal Also Asks Increase in Sportsman's License

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Two of the state legislature's most influential leaders want to extract more revenue from non-residents for the privilege of fishing in Wisconsin waters.

Sen. Walter Hollander of Rosendale and Assemblyman George Molinaro of Kenosha have sponsored legislation to raise the non-resident fishing license charge, unchanged at $5 a year for many years, to $6. They are co-chairmen of the legislature's finance committee and are likely to have considerable influence in their respective Republican and Democratic caucuses.

Last year nearly 281,000 non-resident fishing permits were sold by the Conservation Department, which estimates that there may be a 5 per cent "sales resistance" factor result-

Money would be paid into the aggregate boost of $500,000 a department's fish and game year when fully effective.

Changes would take place on Jan. 1, 1966, the Conservation would also boost the so-called Department has explained, be-all-purpose sportsman's license, cause of the mechanical ree- from $10 to $11 and raise requirements of its licensing the price of the non-resident 15-division.

Wildlife Week

Has Accent on Cleaner Water

Committee Urges Series of Laws To Help in Fight

MADISON — Wisconsin citizens and their Natural Resources Committee of State Agencies (NRCSA), along with the rest of the nation, focus attention on clean water during national wildlife week.

Slogan for the observance, sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation is "Fight Dirty Water".

In Wisconsin, NRCSA has proposed a series of new laws that will help man the front line. Hearings on several were held recently before the Senate Conservation Committee.

One would require industry to report any proposed increase in waste deposits and file plans for treatment. Another calls for investigation of potential pollution and gives the state authority to issue orders following a public hearing. NRCSA is also asking legislation that would make flood plain zoning mandatory, require permits for removal of material from lake or stream beds and permits for enlarging waterways. Still other measures backed by the inter-agency committee would prohibit dumping in areas threatened with flooding and step up law enforcement in cases of illegal torboat gasoline taxes that now diversion or obstruction of public waters.

Not yet scheduled for hearing, this year's NRCSA contribution is another NRCSA bill that to the campaign against pollution proposes a broad $1.8-million.

Dear Van — I'd like to add a word to your discussion of felt boots. I wore them as a boy in Minnesota. They're excellent in arctic weather, but should never be worn when the temperature climbs above zero. M.B. Thanks for the tip. Another reader said much the same thing adding that felt boots should be worn only when it's so cold that the snow squeaks underfoot. In warmer weather the snow will melt, saturating the boots and creating a real hazard of frozen feet.

Float Boats Aren't Fast, but they're a lot of fun. They came in handy for family outings or group get-togethers. The larger ones are even used for parties

Kite Flying Really Way Of Fishing

10-Man Team in Philippines Gets Bats With Hooks

DAVAO, Philippines — An American missionary claims he actually saw this batty fishing game.

While returning from an afternoon Mass at a copper mine, Father Eugene F. Simon, M.M., of Archbald, Pa., noticed a group of men flying kites. Curious as to why grown men out-were so intent on this sport, Father Simon stopped to ask them.

"We're sky-fishing, padre," replied a spokesman for the ten-man team. "We fish for the huge bats found in the coconut groves."

They "sky fish" by tying numerous strings to large fish-hooks which hang loosely from the main string. When the bats come into sight, the kites are maneuvered in their direction. At the right time, the men tug the strings and the hooks fly out, catching the huge web-like wings of the bats.

"The men assured me that the bats made a tasty meal. But I can't speak from experience," Father Simon is quick to point

State's Largest Elm Tree in Wauwatosa

MADISON — The largest elm tree still alive in Wisconsin is located at Wauwatosa in the Menomonee River bottoms near the 2500 block on North 100th Street. It measures 20 feet, 2 inches in circumference, is 103 feet high and has a crown spread of 113 feet. So far it has resisted the elm bark beetle.

A compilation by the Conservation Department shows Wisconsin has about 206 potential record elms throughout the state that have managed to evade Dutch elm disease.

The Flight of the Molly Brown

Officially the latest American space flight was the Gemini, named from the constellation symbol of the twins since it is the first United States flight carrying two passengers. But the ship was dubbed the Molly Brown because it is also Gus Grissom's second time aloft, and the first trip he nearly drowned when his capsule sank in the Atlantic during recovery operations. And somehow for Americans the Unsinkable Molly Brown is the more appropriate name and in keeping with our sense of humor which somehow always seems to accompany the most dangerous exploit.

The space flights have become almost commonplace but they are no less subject to human mistakes and mechanical failures as the landing indicated. The physical and emotional pressure upon the astronauts is tremendous. Each time they are trying out something new. While the Russian floating in space outside of the capsule was spectacular, the ability of Grissom and John Young successfully to maneuver the Molly Brown manually out of orbit is probably more important for future travel. It indicates that the major restriction to manipulated space flight is shortage of fuel and that this is a problem for the future.

Once again the Americans were ahead

Streamlining City Government

Recognizing the need for clear-cut delineation of the legislative, executive and administrative branches of government—and the functions that are inherent to them—the Appleton Common Council is to be commended for fulfilling its obligation and assuming leadership by adopting a charter ordinance making the positions of four city officials appointive rather than elective.

While not an easy political decision, the Common Council nevertheless took the bull by the horns and showed its consistency by giving almost unanimous approval to the ordinance which will change the status of the city clerk, treasurer, assessor and attorney positions.

Within 60 days the transition will take place unless the council is petitioned to put the charter ordinance to a referendum vote. Last week a group of 19 citizens, including some with personal political

Churches and Segregation

One of the most remarkable things about the civil rights demonstrations in Alabama, culminating in the five day march from Selma to Montgomery under the protection of federal troops, has been the involvement of both clergy and laymen of various religious faiths.

The involvement has not been universal. In general, many of the churches seem to be split between conservative and liberal wings. Both a Roman Catholic and an Episcopal bishop in Alabama requested rather tartly that outsiders go home and take care of the affairs in their own parishes and congregations. But this can be interpreted too as a serious concern about what will happen in Alabama when the outsiders including the federal troops do go away and segregationist opinion once more is in control. The recent dynamite findings in Negro church areas are evidence of the dangers ahead.

But it is quite likely that the failure of southern churches to do something about the denial of civil rights and the use of terrorism against any opposition has given many church leaders a guilt complex that may have been somewhat assuaged in taking part in the Alabama demonstrations. Probably few northerners actually

Government Is Being Cheated

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 25, 1865.

Senator Haie has been overhauling the Navy Department in the United States Senate. We take some tid-bits from his speech:

"I found out, and found out that the most enormous frauds were being perpetrated right under my nose in the navy yard, within ten feet of where I live.

"I found out that monkey wrenches, the fair price of which was from 12 to 15 dollars a dozen, were bought by the Navy department at Portsmouth for $150 per dozen.

"There were a great many contrasts in other items made at the same time quite as extravagant as that. For example, 2,000 pounds of cotton waste, with a value from 30 to 40 cents a pound, was obtained by the department under contract at 80 cents a pound, and when the contractors had given all they could at this enormous price, asked as a matter of a favor that the government buy all the rest. I believe, at about 30 cents a pound.

"All the articles in the same bid to which I am referring averaged 150 per cent above of the Russians in live telecasts from Cape Kennedy of the blast-off and transmission from the Molly Brown directly to the listening audience during the flight. This of course is not a matter of mechanical know-how but of willingness to let the public share what sometime could be a failure as well as the current triumph of a successful event. It represents our governmental maturity and philosophy ahead of that of the Soviet Union or of Communism.

The flight of the Molly Brown was a businesslike event without the exclamations of awe which accompanied earlier flights. This is part of the efforts of the National Space Aeronautics Agency to emphasize that the manned flights are just part of the overall space program which includes the latest moon shot and various orbiting craft sending out a variety of information back to earth.

But we have come a long way from Alan Shepard's first fifteen minute trip into the atmosphere during the infancy of our space program. However pragmatic the authorities may be about the flight of the Molly Brown it is still man's insatiable curiosity, his seeking ever into the unknown and the remarkable courage of some which means that we can orbit the earth at all.

ambitions, met and formed a committee to promote a referendum.

The claim of some that rights of the electorate are being infringed is extremely vulnerable when the basics of the charter ordinance are understood: Job qualifications will be spelled out for each position; Applicants will be given written and oral examinations by the State Bureau of Personnel, an interested but unbiased third party; from a list supplied by the bureau of the top-ranked applicants, the mayor will appoint; No appointment is effective until approved by the Common Council; And any appointive official can be removed "for cause" only by a three-fourths vote of the Council.

This is a fair and orderly approach to government reform which has been carried out in like fashion in many other Wisconsin communities in recent years to improve efficiency and streamline legislative and administrative processes.

realized the extent of the denial of rights or the use of threats of violence to prevent insistence upon rights until the death of the Reverend James Reeb.

Participation in the demonstrations also seems to be an example of the growing realization among many leaders of Christian, Jewish and Unitarian faiths of the need for the churches to bear witness in positive fashion to the teachings of the brotherhood of man rather than merely offering platitudes from the pulpit. The ecumenical movement has been part of this change. It appears indeed that many churchmen and churchwomen have read the parable of the seeds and interpreted those "which fell among thorns are they, which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares and riches and pleasure of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection" as possibly referring to institutions as well as to individuals.

In many of our churches, this new involvement may be a source of resurgence of importance in the lives of many members, especially the young. The active living of one's religious faith every day and in all human activities is a requisite for a growing, energetic and vigorous organization unless one erroneously uses the church as an escape from life.

the fair market price for the items. Take the items of anvils weighing about 200 pounds. The fair market price was $30; the government paid $50.

"Attention being called to this, we had a committee of investigation. That committee found, as every man who will take the time to read the report will find out, that rottenness was the rule and corruption the practice, and the government was being swindled beyond all credulity.

Do We Want 'Balance in Nature' Or a Realistic Bounty System?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In your March 15 issue, one headline in Section B was "Northeastern Wisconsin Legislators Offer Proposal on Rural Varmints." "Well, it's about time," we agreed. "They are finally going to do away with that out-moded bounty system." But not so. This proposal was for adding a couple of animals, skunks and raccoons, to the list of "undesirable animals."

This is interesting. Who has been trying to teach people that predators can have good effects on an area: that there really is a "balance of nature" between these animals and rabbits and mice, for instance? The national park system has been teaching this to thousands of people every year. Take one of those animals on that bounty list, the wolf. Wolves are now living on Isle Royal in upper Michigan keeping down the moose population, preventing wide-spread starvation. The mountain lion is now accepted as a welcome member of the community at Yellowstone National Park for the same kind of reason.

The Norway rat is a classic example of a real pest that spread rapidly where it had no natural enemies to keep the Children Should be Faced by Challenges

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In answer to the letter and poem criticizing modern math:

Am I to understand that it is a parent's duty to inform his child that math or any other subject is "simple"? Better yet to be realistic and to inform the child that every subject is a challenge. This is the way of life itself, and as parents, we are responsible for preparing our children to face it. Your reference to modern math as "simply another means of confusing young minds and even encouraging dropouts" is completely unfounded. In fact, the addition of more challenging subjects to their curriculum more often holds the child's attention, keeps him interested and discourages boredom.

Often my children come to me with questions that I cannot answer. This is when my job as a mother becomes

Wisconsin Education Assn. Has Declared Itself Union

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In reference to the AEA letter of March 14, the states of being disgruntled or content do not in themselves make of an affiliation a "union" or a "professional organization." It appears to the unreconstructed elements in our society that to unionize is tantamount to declaring one's inability to pursue professional goals.

Yet, in spite of the AEA's fear of being identified with the labor movement, the Post-Crescent was quite correct in labeling the Appleton Education Association a "union." In

Structure of State Conservation Program Not Apt to be Changed

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON—Again there are some rumblings of dissatisfaction with the machinery for the direction and management of the increasingly important state conservation program.

Wyngaard

Several bills in the legislature propose restrictions upon the method of choosing conservation commissioners and to set out more explicitly the qualifications they should have to sit as members of the policy making board. The board commands the professional staff of the agency which has surpassed 20 fold the size of program and the budget of expenditures its creators visualized when they successfully sponsored the enabling legislation in 1927 which set up the conservation program in its present form.

There is no sign that the legislature will respond to such scattered demands. In fact, some proposals for change from the conservation dissenters and the disenchanting turn up in every legislature. The structure as it now functions is probably secure enough. Yet it may be useful to recall the history of the mechanism, as one of the best known of the earlier conservation leaders of the state did for a Senate Conservation Committee the other day.

SWIFT RECALLS
Ernest F. Swift has spent most of his adult life in conservation administration of one kind or another, starting as a field warden in the barren northern Wisconsin cut-over nearly 40 years ago.

Conservation as a responsibility of government in the 1920's was a comparatively new conception. There had been some sporadic reforestation and a forest protection system in primitive form, some fish planting, and a catch as catch can effort to control fish and game harvest through the organization of a field force of wardens. But administration was patternless and ineffectual, as the far-sighted private citizens inter-

Is Author Confused, Or Is It the Reader?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
I have just finished reading the new play, "Tiny Alice," by Edward Albee, which I intend to see in New York later this month. I did not understand the play after reading it, but hope to do so after seeing it.

What interests me, however, are the different reactions of people to works of the imagination they do not understand. Many persons become immediately indignant: they think it is the job of the creator to make everything crystal-clear on immediate inspection.

Others deride the work as meaningless or purposely cryptic or pretentiously empty. Not one person in a hundred will blame himself for his encrusted habits of mind that prevent him from grasping a new idea or a novel insight.

Yet, faced with a mechanical or scientific object beyond their comprehension, most people either accept its value, or at least suspend judgment. This is because the scientific or technical object seems to "work," and thus justifies its existence. In our pragmatic age, we feel that whatever works must somehow be right.

But this is demonstrably not true. Einstein overthrew most of the scientific concepts of the preceding 300 years; but, ested in natural resources protection of that time saw it.

Perhaps the most influential of the intellectual authors of the reorganized conservation administration achieved in 1927 was the late Aldo Leopold, a world-renowned naturalist who later was one of the adornments of the staff of the University of Wisconsin. Many men of practical affairs collaborated. Among the most important of the survivors is W. J. P. Aberg, the Madison lawyer who was a towering figure in Wisconsin conservation for four decades.

Their conception was a staff of professional administrators, flanked by technicians such as foresters and biologists, working under the policy direction of a guiding commission of six members. The commissioners were chosen according to their demonstrated interest in and knowledge of conservation problems, serving without pay, and with staggered terms of insulate the machinery against the twists and turns of partisan politics as far as that is possible in a representative system of government.

THE RESULT
Today the Conservation Department working with its policy commission has become one of the model methods in key state government divisions.

As Swift said, with the luxury of independence that comes with retirement, there have been good commissioners and indifferent commissioners and a few thoroughly inadequate commissioners. There have been men who liked to fuss about truck tire prices or inventories, who had little appreciation of the immensity of the forest protection achievement of the last generation. Others involved themselves in the petty personality disputes inevitable in a bureaucracy, without the slightest response to the probable extinction of the pine marten, or the protection of the beautiful pasque-flower, as the late Prof. Leopold might say.

There have been times when the conservation staff was shuddering with internal turmoil and dissension. But it has now had at least a decade of peace and quiet, despite the hard challenges of new responsibilities and vastly increasing budgets, and there is no reason to suppose that the legislature is about to upset the even tenor of its work.
